WEATHER
The weatherman says it's going to continue sunny and mild today with a high near 80 degrees. Tonight promises fair weather with temperatures near 54 degrees. The extended forecast for Saturday through Wednesday indicated temperatures a little above normal turning slightly cooler the first of the week with some shower activity expected. Sunrise today was at 7 a.m., sunset will be at 7:31 p.m. Yesterday's 7 a.m. report; high 78 degrees; low 42 degrees, there was no precipitation recorded. The river level was 3.92 and falling.

Kinzua Dam Report
Pool level 1326.67 feet (desired summer pool level 1328; maximum 1360). Outflow temperature 64 degrees; upper reservoir 67 degrees. Reading at the Warren gauge 3.98 feet.

WARREN COUNTY
Warren County yesterday and today is the host for the AAA Motor Club travel counselors state conference meeting. The two-day conference concludes today with a bus tour of Kinzua Dam and the recreational sites throughout the area.

THE NATION
President Johnson flew from Washington to Kansas City to deliver an address asking for help in passing his programs to fight crime and limit the sale of firearms. His message was coupled with denunciation of urban rioters and the advocates of violence "spawned" by the riots.

A spokesman for the Agency for International Development announced that the United States will spend $1.3 million to buy contraceptives to be distributed through commercial channels to men and women in India. It marked the first foreign aid program involving the purchase of contraceptives.

SPORTS
Two Warren County high school see gridiron action tonight, Warren and Eisenhower. The Dragons travel to Franklin to meet the defending Knights in a game that could decide this season's Section II championship and the Knights of Eisenhower open under the lights at Gowanda, N.Y. Page A8.

Warren Area High School's golf team took its second and third triumphs in Section II golf yesterday, whipping both Oil City and Cranberry in a triangular match. Page A8.

U.S. yacht Intrepid made it three straight over Australia's Dame Pattie yesterday in the best-of-seven series for the America's Cup. The overturn of a 14-foot spectator boat in Intrepid's path added a little excitement to the race. Page A10.

American League pennant contenders met to decide a possible playoff schedule for the flag yesterday, with Detroit winning a coin toss for two of a three-game series in its home park. Page A9.

Aid to Nonpublic Schools Is on State Voters' Minds

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania legislators say that taxes is unquestionably the uppermost issue on the minds of their constituents, but aid to nonpublic schools is a close second with citizen opinion divided.

The Associated Press conducted a random sampling of what the lawmakers' heard from their constituency during a 10-day recess for the Labor Day holiday.

Taxes was a unanimous issue. "A majority of my mail says, 'Please, no' on all counts," said Sen. Gus Yatron, D-Berks. "We are being taxed enough now."

However, Sen. Frederick H. Hobbs, R-Schuylkill, put a different twist on the revenue dilemma.

"My constituents appear to be reconciled to the fact that taxes are necessary," he said. "However, they are very perplexed over why a Republican governor, a Republican House and a Republican Senate can't get through this tax crisis."

Virtually every lawmaker polled made note of the passions being aroused by HB1136, a bill to provide state aid to private and parochial schools.

"My district seems to be fairly equally divided on the issue," said Rep. John Stauffer, R-Chester.

But Rep. Marvin D. Weidner, R-Bucks, had this to say: "Most of the feeling in my district is anti — against. The majority of my constituents is that the state should not support a dual-school system, public and private."

The situation was just the reverse in northeastern Pennsylvania, which has a heavy Catholic population in Lackawanna and Luzerne counties.

"The majority of my people are for it (HB1136)," Rep. Fred J. Shupnik, D-Luzerne, said.

Only two of the lawmakers mentioned the pending constitutional convention, the first in this state in 94 years.

"The interest in this is growing in my district, particularly as the political organizations pick their nominees," observed Sen. William G. Sesler, D-Erie.

"My people wonder, however, if the whole job can be completed in just three months," Sen. Richard A. Snyder, R-

Aid to Nonpublic Schools Opposed

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — The State Board of Education, in a surprise move, went on record yesterday opposing any legislation that would provide direct or indirect state aid to private or parochial schools.

The board adopted a resolution, prepared by its Council of Basic Education, opposing such aid but endorsing dual, called "shared time," enrollment plans to help nonpublic schools solve their financial problems. The vote was 11-2.

The action drew immediate reaction in Harrisburg, where Lt. Gov. Raymond D. Frederick said the board did not represent the Shafer Administration's position on the controversial issue.

"It should be made perfectly clear that the resolution represents independent action by the state board and in no way should it be considered or interpreted as the position of the governor in this matter," Frederick said, adding:

"The governor has insisted that he hear all sides of this issue before his administration can take a position that will serve the best interests of all Pennsylvanians."

Shafer is in Europe on a trade mission to promote Pennsylvania products. He is scheduled to return next Thursday.

The resolution did not specify any legislation, but it was aimed at a bill in the House to provide $27 million a year in state aid to nonpublic schools by creation of a special authority.

Mario C. Celli of McKeesport and Dr. Leonard Wolf of Scranton, who voted against the resolution, argued that the board should have held public hearings to consider all aspects of the issue before taking a stand.

However, another member, Gail L. Rose of Butler, said he felt the board would be derelict in its duty if it did not take a position on what he termed "a controversial and crucial issue."

Rose pointed out that the board has been criticized in the past for not making its views on controversial matters known to the General Assembly.

Dr. Otis McCreery of Pittsburgh, board president, said the resolution was not "anti-parochial in any way," but represented the board's belief that the state's educational programs can be carried on more effectively "within the public school system."

Mrs. Albert M. Greenfield of Philadelphia, chairman of the Council of Basic Education, said the resolution would help stimulate discussion on the matter throughout the state.

"This resolution is extremely important," Mrs. Greenfield said, "because as a state board we cannot remain silent on an issue we believe is crucial."

Frank Hawkins of Pittsburgh, chairman of the board's Council of Higher Education, pointed out that it was neither "customary nor mandatory" for the board to hold public hearings before adopting policy statements.

The resolution, in part, said the board would defend the right of any institution to establish private schools, but felt state aid "would encourage a proliferation of nonpublic schools."

Warren Hosts AAA Group

By BETTY RUL
The 65-year-old American AAA Motor Club organization must be imbued with the spirit of service, said the Hon. Clarence Pulling, former mayor of Erie and president of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation.

Pulling addressed those attending the state conference of AAA Travel Counselors meeting in Warren yesterday in place of Clark McClelland, director of safety and traffic engineering of Pennsylvania AAA, who was unexpectedly admitted to Warren General Hospital for observation after his arrival here Wednesday for the official two-day conference.

Pulling termed the local meeting of greatest importance, advising those present to take stock of the organization.

Pulling last night referred to today's "dam trip," Kinzua Dam and its recreational area which he said could well develop into the most outstanding place in Pennsylvania. Members of the conference today tour that area through courtesy of Warren County Motor Club and Allegheny National Forest officials.

Clifford W. Bigelow of Wyoming Valley Motor Club, Kingston, Pa., served as master of ceremonies for the affair, with Donald Schuler, secretary of the Warren County Motor Club, being commended for his "terrific job in arranging the two-day school."

Special greetings were also extended Willis Lundahl, president of Warren County Motor Club, as well as visiting AAA officers and representatives.

Prior to dancing to the music of Pete Pepke and combo, guests were invited to a reception from 5:30 until 6:30 p.m., as guests of the Warren Times-Mirror and Observer following today's special tour.

Terming AAA the "guardian angel of the American motorist," Pulling suggested the various organizations study laws proposed and that committees be set up to determine policies to improve AAA's image. He added that emergency road service is seldom recognized by persons involved.

Forest Officials Meet Press

Officials of the Allegheny National Forest held a press conference at their administrative offices at Klondike yesterday to acquaint representatives of press and radio with the progress being made on the various recreational facilities at the Kinzua Dam.

In opening the meeting, Lee Kelley, supervisor, stated that circumstances beyond the control of his staff were mostly responsible for much of the work that remains behind schedule as the dam closes out its first year of full operation.

To detail these circumstances and report what has been accomplished to date, John Lupis, chief forest engineer, presented and explained charts he had prepared for the purpose.

Lupis said that Kiasutha, Willow Bay and the Kinzua Point Picnic Area would be completed and ready for the 1968 season. Several other projects were either under construction or in the planning stages.

But he also announced that two very important projects, the information center at the dam site and Route 262 (the road from Jake's Rocks to Kiasutha) would not be in service during the major portion of the 1968 season, and that improvement of the road to the Roper Hollow Boat Launching Area would be even later.

FedBoardChairman Urges Higher Taxes

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, William McChesney Martin Jr., warned Congress yesterday that the nation was in the grip of an "inflationary psychology." This, he said, was demonstrated by the "unwarranted spree" in stock prices, and other inflationary characteristics.

Martin urged prompt passage of a tax increase to prevent inflationary forces from gaining momentum.

"I foresee very serious problems" if the tax increase is not passed, he told the House Ways and Means Committee. He predicted a classic inflationary spiral with prices going up, initially in response to excessive demand and then continuing to rise as further demand was created by the fear of still higher prices in the future.

He specifically included interest rates in his forecast of the prices that would go up without a tax increase.

Martin told the committee, which has been seeking some assurance that a tax increase would dampen interest rates, that "I am not here today to guarantee to you that interest rates will be lower if you pass this tax bill."

But, he added, "In the absence of a tax increase, interest rates will go up" despite anything the Federal Reserve could do to supply credit to the economy in "very liberal" amounts.

Martin promised the committee, however, that the Federal Reserve would attempt to avoid a repetition of the extreme tightness of credit that it put into effect last summer and

India Gets $1.3M For Birth Control

By BENJAMIN WELLES
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The United States announced yesterday the first foreign aid program involving the purchase of contraceptives.

William S. Gaud, director of the Administration for International Development, disclosed that the U.S. plans to give India $1.3 million to buy contraceptives for men and women. The contraceptives would be purchased in the U.S. and distributed through Indian commercial channels.

Of the $1.3 million total, Gaud said, $800,000 will go to supply 100 million contraceptives for males as the initial inventory in what he termed a "large continuing program of commercial distribution of condoms throughout India."

A.I.D. officials said that this will be the first time that rubber contraceptives for men will be shipped overseas by the U.S. government. They have previously been issued only to servicemen during World War II and the Korean conflict.

As his audience, mostly women in flowered hats, listened attentively, Gaud said that a single "brand name" contraceptive will be packaged and distributed under the auspices of the Hindustan Latex Corporation, an affiliate of the Indian government.

The remaining $500,000, Gaud disclosed in an address here to the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will go to provide enough birth control pills for 100,000 Indian women participating in a test over a year and a half period.

Hindustan Latex will contract with a half dozen or more of India's largest concerns to promote and distribute this national brand name contraceptive as a "sideline."

An Indian government subsidy will drop the prohibitively high price of condoms in India—13 U.S. cents—to approximately two cents for a pack of three. If the market grows large enough, Gaud said, it should permit unsubsidized production and sale of contraceptives within this price range.

Columbus Youths In Dairy Show

Two Columbus youths from well-known dairy farm families competed yesterday in an All-American Dairy Show in which their milk cows were up against 2,400 other animals in judging.

Marcia Curtis showed a Jersey and Leslie Dodd a Holstein at the show in Harrisburg which pulled entries from 14 eastern states.

In order to be eligible to show in the All-American event, exhibitors must have won blue ribbons at the county 4-H show, the district show and be one of the top three in their class at the state show.

Marcia and Leslie accomplished this in the county event at Youngsville, the district show at Meadville, leading up to the state contest in Harrisburg.

Miss Curtis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Curtis and Leslie the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dodd Sr.

White Rioters Blasted

(c) N. Y. Times News Service
MILWAUKEE—Mayor Henry W. Maier yesterday denounced white rioters who have attacked the police with bricks and bottles during the last two nights.

It was the first time in 18 days of open housing demonstrations by Negroes that the mayor had specifically criticized the counterdemonstrators rather than an open-housing marchers.

"This time the hoodlums were white," he said. "The hate-mongers were white."

When the Negroes last went to the south side on Monday night, they were met with a hail of bricks and bottles. Since then, Negro demonstrators have held their marches on the north side, miles from the hostile, all-white south side.

With no Negroes to attack, mobs of cursing, bottle-tossing south sliders vented their rage on policemen.

Father James E. Groppi, leader of the civil rights demonstrations, again urged the mayor to ask for the National Guard to control south side whites. The white priest, assistant pastor at St. Boniface Church in the Negro area near north side, recalled that the guard had been promptly called in by the mayor last month, when Negroes broke windows and set fires on the north side.

Groppi, at a news conference in the Church, said the marches would continue until the mayor and the common council put an open-housing ordinance on the books.

Phony Bill Mailing Continuing

Local and area residents are still receiving through the mail solicitations from "Classified Listings," an organization operating out of Tarzana, California, and "Classified Directory Publishing Co." of Los Angeles, California.

John J. Barber, agent in charge for the Bureau of Consumer Protection, says his office is still receiving complaints concerning the two organizations who send out what appears to be bills for Yellow Pages advertising to area residents and local businessmen.

It has been learned that a number of people have made payments to these organizations believing these cards to be legitimate bills.

Bell Telephone Company has stated, along with the General Telephone Company of Erie, that these are not bills from either of their companies.

The Bureau of Consumer Protection has written to the Better Business Bureau of California and hopes they will take steps to stop this type of solicitation. Barber urges all persons to be on the lookout for these cards and not to pay them by mistake. He asks the public to report any further solicitation to his office, Bureau of Consumer Protection, 205 Rothrock Bldg., 121 W. Tenth st., Erie, Penna., 16501.

Local Motels Full For Singing Event

At present thirty more reservations for motel rooms have been received than are available.

CONTINUE ANTI-GROPP DRIVE

Milwaukee's mayor yesterday protested what he called "white riots" in his city. Whites have been protesting Father James Groppi's stand on open housing and have reacted to Negroes' marches for a housing law by throwing bricks and bottles. Father Groppi is an advisor to the city's NAACP youth council. Wednesday evening white youths carried this stretcher with a dummy representing the priest.

"Wretched Vulgar Men" Are Blasted by Johnson

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
KANSAS CITY, Mo.—President Johnson flew to the mid-west yesterday to plead with the American people to help pass his programs to fight crime and limit the sales of firearms.

Addressing the convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, Johnson coupled his message with his most impassioned denunciation yet of urban rioters.

"These wretched vulgar men" Johnson said without naming names, "these poisonous propagandists, posed as spokesmen for the underprivileged and capitalized on the real grievances of the suffering people."

The police chiefs applauded loudest when the President said: "Much can explain, but nothing can justify, the riots of 1967."

Johnson went on, however, before an audience of 1,200 persons, to insist that law enforcement should be swift and blind to color as well as effective.

Fire Department Gets 2 Calls On Gas Leaking

Warren Borough Fire Department was called on two separate occasions yesterday to flush gasoline that had leaked or overflowed from automobiles.

The department was first summoned at 10:45 a.m. where the gasoline tank of a car owned by Stan Collins had overflowed in front of 428 Pennsylvania ave. W., officials at the department said. A booster line was used to flush the gasoline from the pavement. Two firemen were on the scene for 11 minutes.

The second call sent firemen to in front of 23 Plum st. where the gasoline tank of a car owned by Robert Guffire had overflowed, firemen said. Two men used a booster line to flush the gasoline.

Damage: $475

Property damage totaled $475 in a two-vehicle accident investigated at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday by state police trooper Max J. Bizzak of the Warren substation.

Bizzak said a truck driven by Reid D. Willis, 55, MR 5, Titusville, traveling north on Route 27, eight miles north of Titusville in Southwest township, was struck on the side by a northbound car operated by Norman E. Blackmer, 28, RD 1, Pittsfield.

According to police Willis had his turn signal on to make a left hand turn when the Blackmer vehicle attempted to pass.

Area Blue Cross Studies Computers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Blue Cross of Western Pennsylvania said yesterday it is studying a computer system to help 27 hospitals in its coverage area reduce administration costs.

Blue Cross President William Ford said hospitals in Erie, Altoona, Pittsburgh and other cities could tap a central computer in Blue Cross' Pittsburgh headquarters by picking up a phone. The computer would store information on personnel, accounting and patient statistics. The program would be inaugurated in a pilot hospital early in 1969 under present plans. Ford estimated the computer could save the hospitals a total of $280,000 a year.

Drivers are Sent Ducking in Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A wildcat strike by steel truckers spread through five states yesterday and sent drivers ducking behind their dashboards to avoid rocks and bullets.

The strike, which started three weeks ago at trucking companies in Gary, Ind., blocked shipments in Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Youngstown, Ohio; Wheeling, W. Va., and Buffalo, N.Y. One industry source said some plants may have to start laying off workers in less than a week if the strike goes on.

"If you can't move the steel, there is no need to make it," he said.

Some warehouses and trucking firms kept their men off the road for fear they would get hurt or the trucks damaged.

The strikers are men who are working for trucking companies but haul the steel in their own trucks. They want more money than they're getting under a national Teamsters' contract. They also are demanding pay for waiting at mills to have their trucks loaded or unloaded.

Truckers who ventured onto the highways with steel cargoes ran the risk of being shot at or pelted with rocks. A rash of shooting and rock-throwing incidents have been reported in Ohio and Western Pennsylvania this week.

Ohio police said a bullet fired from a car at a steel truck near Medina yesterday wounded the driver, Alex Baker, 36, of Munroe Falls, Ohio, in the arm. Five bullets from a car ripped into a truck loaded with grain near Lisbon, Ohio.

U.S. Steel, which ships half its production by truck, said the situation is very serious. The Pennsylvania Railroad in Pittsburgh noted an upswing in orders for cars to carry steel. "We are getting orders from steel companies that we never received before," the railroad said.

Steel industry sources said pickets showed up at some plant gates, but the big problem was gangs of men in cars. "Let's put it this way," the source said, "You're not going to drive your truck out there on the highway with a bunch of those guys following you. Most of the trucks are just not showing up. The men are plain scared."

An official of Steel City Transport in Pittsburgh said one of their drivers was shot at Wednesday near Morrisville, Ohio.

Soviets' Missile Arsenal is Doubled

By LOUIS NEVIN

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union nearly doubled its arsenal of long-range missiles this year and Red China has stockpiled probably 30 relatively small atomic bombs, the authoritative Institute for Strategic Studies said yesterday.

It also reported that around Moscow the Russians had installed some antiballistic missiles with a nuclear warhead that would permit limited protection against U.S. missiles. The missiles name is Galosh.

The accelerated Soviet missile program will cut U.S. superiority even further in 1968, the institute predicted in its annual appraisal of the world's principal armed forces. It found U.S. missile superiority reduced from nearly four to one to less than three to one.

The institute was founded in 1958 as an international center for research on defense, world security and disarmament problems. It is a private organization with an international council from 13 countries and gathers its information from private and governmental sources and its own research staff.

Despite political unrest, the report on Red China said, "The Chinese advanced weapons program has made steady progress."

China's test of an H-bomb June 17, less than 2 1/2 years after its first A-bomb test, "testifies to the skill of Chinese nuclear physicists and engineers."

There is as yet no indication the Chinese nuclear program is operational but "all indications are that China intends to base her delivery system on missiles."

The report said, however, that Peking's armed forces "have lost more than they gained" in the two-year power struggle among the top men of the nation.

"As a result of Mao Tse-tung's destruction of the party apparatus and Red Guard interference with the working of the administrative structure, the People's Liberation Army remains the only organized body in the country capable of transmitting and implementing the orders of the Maoist group in Peking," the report said.

This has "led to overextension of military effort, interference with training schedules and a probable reduction in combat effectiveness," the institute said. Successive purges have discarded some top officers, especially in the air force.

The report said the Soviet Union has deployed the Galosh "in limited numbers" around Moscow. It is a multistage, solid-fuel antiballistic missile.

Galosh is believed to have a range of several hundred miles and to carry a nuclear warhead in the one to two megaton range, the equivalent of two million tons of TNT.

"It is therefore suitable for interception at high altitude and for area defense," the institute said. "This feature and the nature of the radar associated with it suggest that its function is the defense of the northwestern U.S.S.R., which contains a high proportion of Soviet industrial capacity and many of its major cities."

The report said Soviet nuclear warheads generally have a bigger bang than the Americans

Project 70 Funds and Pool

With the approval of the $500 million Constitutional borrowing authorization in the May primary elections, Pennsylvania voters have overwhelmingly authorized the Commonwealth to meet the environmental challenges now facing us during this last third of the 20th Century.

The enabling legislation, Senate Bill 509, "The Land and Water and Reclamation Act, will enable the state to invest $500 million, at an annual amount of $50 million, over a 10 year period to not only attack ravaged and contaminated areas but acquire and develop local parks, recreation sites, open space and historic sites.

Senate Bill 509 can also mean a healthy financial boost for Warren's proposed swimming pool complex to be located on Oak street. Upon passage an allocation of $75 million will be made to the Department of Community Affairs for development and acquisition of county and municipal park and recreation lands acquired under Project 70.

Up to 50 per cent grants will be available for these purposes.

Warren moved swiftly and with vision and foresight to get "in the swim" even though it means a possible 60 to 90-day delay in getting construction under way.

Under the $500 million bond issue amendment, projects are to be carried out in an orderly fashion by various executive agencies according to the compact voters made the state when they approved the constitutional amendment.

But there appears to be a fly in the Only the Irish Would . . .

Men like sports because they are physically competitive. They enjoy pitting strength against strength, skill against skill. It's a refinement of the ancient kill-or-be-killed philosophy. Happily, in my house, the sports section of the newspaper is the one part the ladies will give me without argument.

I read it like gospel. Still, there are many forms of sports which leave me with a grim chill. Barrel Jumping, for example, it may electrify you to know that, at Grossinger, N.Y., Jacques St. Pierre, on ice skates, hopped over 16 barrels without bending his muffer. It doesn't do anything for me.

Nor does archery. One time, on vacation, my father and I got loaded and went out and bought a big bull's eye and a couple of bows and arrows. We nailed the target to a tree and, before we called it a day, sweet old ladies on front porches were hilding their skirts and running for the hills. A bow and arrow is great, if you're an orthodox Indian.

Wrestling is for method actors and sex-starved women. I can smell those whales through the TV screen. Bobsledding, which has its own record book, is a scenic railway ride on snow. I'm still hooked on boxing, and, whenever Chris Dundee promotes a fight, I'm in a front row working off my hostility.

But canoeing? What is that? Did you ever hear anybody brag about "My son the canoeer?" Or is it canoeist? There is a Hungarian who holds the record for paddling—which I thought was another type of sport—and he did the 10,000 meters in 50 minutes, 39.02 seconds. Give him a girl and a ukulele and he won't make it that fast.

Only the Irish would consider hurling a sport. It consists of two teams armed with clubs chasing a leather ball around a field. The cracking of skulls is natural to the pastime. At Cork, I watched Wexford play Cork and saw two men carried off the field. "Is it a league game?" I said to a constable. "Ah, no," he said. "It's a benefit for a Wexford player who had his bloody head split open in a game last week."

Judo and Karate are gymnastic tumbling done with grunts. Parachute Jumping is now listed as a sport, but throat-cutting has been eliminated. I tried polo when I was in the field artillery, but it left me apathetic when I found a few of my teeth in another guy's mallet. Soccer is now being promoted at top speed by the networks, which need an additional sport to augment baseball, football, boxing and golf to suck in additional beer and razor sponsors. My father was once a semi-pro soccer player. Today he thinks he's doing great if he can watch it without falling asleep. The Bar Bell boys are masses of muscle trying to lift a worthless object from the floor. A Russian named Vlasov set a record on Aug. 3, 1964, by hiking 1,278½ lbs. off the deck, but the same character wouldn't dream of helping his wife with a bag of groceries.

Sculling is an oarsman in a sports rowboat. I'm sure that there must be something intriguing in many of these sports—like Lacrosse and Wheelchair Sports for Cripples—for which I have a blind spot. Nor can I work up a head of steam over ladies, in bloomers, playing badminton. Or even goodminton.

A man can afford to be a snob about sports, whether he is a participant or a spectator. For example, I like horse races but not horses. Anything that big which will permit itself to be whacked by a runt in silks is not bright. Grayhounds will chase an electric rabbit every night without ever understanding that they have been conned.

Years ago, when Madison Square Garden was further south than it is, I thought nothing of sitting up all night watching the sprints in the six-day bicycle races. The sport died when football first drew the attention of the non-collegiate fans. At Indianapolis, a gigantic crowd watches the 500-mile classic every year, but they're not sports. They are mostly sadists who buy a ticket to see a couple of drivers get killed.

Not many women care for sports, even as spectators. They will go to the horse races sometimes, because there is always a chance that they can convert a two-dollar show ticket into $2.40 on a hunch. The only sport they really appreciate is sharpening their claws on each other.

I played amateur baseball, football, polo and tried boxing until four kids in a row knocked my block off. Today my major sport is walking out the lawn to the mailbox, and betting that I can make the round trip alone. . . .

ointment. Sen. D. Elmer Hawbaker of Mercersburg and some of his Republican colleagues have introduced a legislative proposal to turn the bond issue into a huge "pork barrel" of a sort that has long characterized the federal public works appropriations bills.

Senator Hawbaker is trying to put the expenditure of every dollar of the bond issue under legislative control. In short he would require separate legislative approval of every spending count.

This could mean a legislator could withhold support of a conservation measure until assured he would get something for his own district. Such a move could lead not only to delay but abuse of funds.

Hawbaker does have some opposition at the present time from two of the Senate's most influential members, President Pro Tem Robert D. Fleming and Jack McGregor, both of Allegheny County.

The amendments proposed would disregard the pledges made by Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, former Governor William W. Scranton and administration leaders during the pre-election campaign.

In the meantime, however, Warren has submitted a preliminary application which has been approved. Once the bill is signed into law, those working to see the local swimming pool become a reality, will be ready to fire the required Phase I application to Harrisburg for approval.

Success could mean a possible $70,000 boost to the some $185,000 subscribed locally.

The Bark Of a Tree

The bark of a tree is synonymous with the skin of an animal. Like the hides of animals, the bark of many species of forest trees has a wide variety of uses in our complex civilization.

Locally, the thick bark of the hemlock was the essential raw material upon which the tanning industry was founded.

At one time it was the only part of the tree that was used. The peeled logs were left to rot in the woods. It seems ironic that a tree's hide, or bark, was used in tanning the hides of cattle.

Primitive man made clothing and baskets from tree bark, and used finely shredded bark as tinder for his fire drill when he started his cooking fires.

The American Indian in the northern lake country made his canoes out of birch bark. The eastern Indians constructed their lodges and long houses by covering pole frameworks with the thick bark of trees of several species. The Apache Indians used the inner bark of the ponderosa pine as emergency food in times of hunger. I have encountered ancient trees that still bore the scars of the stone axes that were used to cut away sections of bark for food.

Bert Lilley, a famous mountain lion hunter of the Southwest, utilized the bark of trees in an unusual way. He wrote his checks on pieces of bark, and the bank always honored them.

Quinine, a standard remedy for malaria, is obtained from the bark of the cinchona tree. The wild black cherry, that grows in such abundance in Warren County, produces a bark that can be made into cough medicine. In the mountains of West Virginia many families augment their meager income by stripping the bark from young wild black cherry trees to sell for this purpose, much to the discomfort of foresters who are trying to grow black cherry for cabinet wood.

When you eat cinnamon bread, or cinnamon toast, you are eating the powdered inner bark of the cinnamon tree.

The cork that fits so snugly in the neck of a bottle of imported French wine comes from the thick bark of the cork oak. Bark scraps are used in wall-board, roofing felt, composition shingles, cardboard, and as a filler for paper.

But bark has often been a nuisance in the lumber and pulpwood industry. The use of chemicals to kill the standing pulpwood trees, so that the bark would fall off when they were felled in the woods, has been standard practice in many parts of the forests in this area.

If bark disposal has been a problem in the pulpwood industry of the East, it has been even more serious in the past around redwood sawmills in the West. The bark of a redwood tree may often be a foot thick, and may make up about one-third of the volume of the tree.

Now thanks to research, so many uses have been found for redwood bark that it is no longer a disposal problem. There are a hundred new uses for this bark today, and it is now the most versatile part of the redwood tree. You may now sleep on it, wear it, walk on it, grow flowers in it, and eat off it.

Redwood bark is used in bed blankets, mackinaw jackets, in batting, mattress filling, and even in diesel engine oil filters. But the greatest volume of redwood bark is used as a soil conditioner and as a garden compost. It forms a resilient, shock-absorbing ground cover for playgrounds, athletic fields, and garden paths.

There is even a possibility that redwood bark extract may be used in the treatment of cancer. It is being tested for this purpose at Lenox Hill Hospital, New York City under a cooperative agreement with the University of California's Forest Products Laboratory.

Redwood bark even figures in the oil-well-drilling industry. Highly refined bark is used in muds for sealing oil well drilling holes.

It serves modern industry in many other ways. The bark is used in boiler water compounds, ore flotation, asphalt emulsions and acid type detergents. An important component of lead-acid batteries is highly refined redwood bark.

One can but wonder how many uses the bark of the fifteen different commercial species of trees that grow in Warren County may have. If modern research were applied to unlock their secrets,

'YOU'RE RIGHT, MR. ROMNEY, YOU CERTAINLY WERE BRAINWASHED—BUT IT SEEMS PRETTY CLEAR IN THERE NOW.'

TOM WICKER

The So-called Credibility Gap

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON—Gov. George Romney of Michigan, in the series of statements he made following his original plea of having been "brainwashed" on his trip to Saigon in 1965, told of several times on one of the raw nerves of the Johnson Administration—the so-called credibility gap.

This is the popular name for the idea that the Administration does not tell the truth that it has misled the American people on the war in Vietnam and other vital issues. Romney's basic complaint, for instance, seemed to be that administration officials in Saigon had high-pressed him into believing that American participation in the war in Vietnam was necessary; it was only later that he came to believe that it was not.

A far better example of how the credibility gap has become so much a part of the public idea of this Administration is the strange case of the bombing of Haiphong and Campha, two of North Viet Nam's three important seaports.

On Aug. 25, Secretary McNamara, in a lengthy defense of the Administration's "restrained" bombing policy, specifically listed these three ports among 57 military targets not yet authorized for attack.

McNamara said some of these 57 targets would be authorized later to attack "a few" of them, he said, would produce such "risks or direct confrontation with Communist China or the Soviet Union," that this was thought to outweigh the military advantage of bombing them.

Wary, then, did McNamara go to such lengths to downgrade the usefulness of bombing these cities? Why did he leave it unclear whether they were among the targets on which attacks might produce a confrontation with Moscow or Peking? And why has the Administration, including McNamara, so consistently said that cutting off sea traffic into North Viet Nam would drive Hanoi closer to Peking, if attacks on the port cities were to be authorized any way?

It is in such bafflements that the credibility gap has its roots. The Administration insists that there has been no escalation and that there is no difference between McNamara and the Joint Chiefs of Staff. But the Haiphong-Campha episode has convinced many here that McNamara has indeed been overruled, by the President in favor of the Chiefs; or that the Administration, including McNamara, has talked one way to please the doves and acted another to appease the hawks.

It is taken as evidence by some that a steady escalation of the air war is under way, despite talk of peace moves in Saigon and the United Nations.

And although McNamara himself made the case that shutting off sea traffic into North Viet Nam would make it more dependent upon China, the fact is that the Haiphong and Campha attacks had little real effect upon seaborne imports. High administration sources concede that they were designed only to "increase the cost" of the war to North Vietnam, not to interdict totally the sea traffic into its ports.

None of this, however, has been fully or effectively explained to the public, nor have the Haiphong-Campha raids been interpreted in the context of the McNamara statement on Administration bombing policy.

The meeting with the Rheinmetall-Diehl people lasted until 11 o'clock last night, President Mr. Caesar, Mr. Blume and Mr. Falcke of Rheinmetall, and Mr. Diehl and his own right-hand man, Mr. von Pryschofski (known in the trade as Mr. Von P), and of course, I.

"It was in my estimation a very good and successful meeting, in which all phases of the future including the present so-called USA-Hoek combine were discussed," Gen. Klein reported.

"Rheinmetall and Diehl have agreed to a joint venture in the U.S., not only on the know-how but possibly also furnishing machinery, technicians, etc., and whatever is necessary for a profitable U.S. venture. "They are very much interested in Curtiss-Wright or a similar firm . . .

"My recommendation that my brother Max and Mr. Wiggins fly over to Germany to discuss the technical aspect and also the possibility of cooperating with Curtiss-Wright or other firms was accepted. They have set the week of June 26 to July 1 for such a meeting . . .

The Wiggins referred to above is Charles Wiggins, a Washington public relations man who has had a problem with alcohol. He was arrested in the District of Columbia for drunkenness on February 7, 1965.

Klein, of course, was not aware that if the Rheinmetall-Diehl combine got established in the USA his firm might handle its public relations. The memo stated: "Of course I haven't discussed any extra arrangements for JKPR (Julius Klein Public Relations, Inc.) with Mr. Diehl yet, as after all I do represent Rheinmetall already. But this will be done at a later date after Rheinmetall and Diehl conclude their own agreement and then Mr. Caesar will urge Mr. Diehl to make an agreement with us too . . .

"It was no use for me to discuss this agreement until Rheinmetall and Diehl conclude their own binding agreement."

After further discussing plans to manufacture the Hispano-Suiza 20 mm cannon, Gen. Klein concluded: "This covers in a thumbnail the result of my meeting, and I am satisfied. Of course we will have to discuss all possibilities when I return. I will also be guided by the advice of the Chicago and Washington JKPR staff."

Note: The official position of the Johnson Administration regarding Rheinmetall was outlined March 7, 1966, by Assistant Secretary of State Douglas McArthur II as follows:

"It appears that of the five present principal officers of Rheinmetall A.G., three were members of the Nazi party during World War II. Of these five members, two, including one of the Nazi party members, were plant managers of Rheinmetall Borsig A.G. during the war. The degree of active involvement in Nazi party activities by the three wartime members is not known."

He did not say whether Haiphong or Campha were among the dangerous "few", only that they were among the targets not yet authorized for attack. Nevertheless, when the two port cities were attacked this week, it was hard to avoid the conclusion that this was to some extent an escalation of the air war; something proscribed before had finally been done.

Moreover, the most impressive part of McNamara's testimony on Aug. 25 was to the effect that closing North Viet Nam's seaports by air attacks was hardly worth the effort. So little of that country's war-making necessities were imported by sea, and so many alternatives would be available, that bombing the port cities "would not be an effective means of stopping the infiltration of supplies into South Vietnam."

Administration officials also argue that closing the North Vietnamese ports, even if that were practical, might have a reverse effect; it would make North Viet Nam even more dependent on overland transportation from Communist China and thus even more susceptible to political influence from Peking.

As McNamara put it, effective interdiction of sea traffic into North Vietnam "would only lead to total reliance on land importation through Communist China," which there is a common border 500 miles long.

But this week, U.S. planes attacked Campha, the third largest port, and spokesmen explained that they could do so because they picked a time when no foreign ships were exposed in the harbor. An attack on Haiphong, quickly followed, with the explanation that dock areas were not bombed—just railroad yards, warehouses and bridges.

Wary, then, did McNamara go to such lengths to downgrade the usefulness of bombing these cities? Why did he leave it unclear whether they were among the targets on which attacks might produce a confrontation with Moscow or Peking? And why has the Administration, including McNamara, so consistently said that cutting off sea traffic into North Viet Nam would drive Hanoi closer to Peking, if attacks on the port cities were to be authorized any way?

It is in such bafflements that the credibility gap has its roots. The Administration insists that there has been no escalation and that there is no difference between McNamara and the Joint Chiefs of Staff. But the Haiphong-Campha episode has convinced many here that McNamara has indeed been overruled, by the President in favor of the Chiefs; or that the Administration, including McNamara, has talked one way to please the doves and acted another to appease the hawks.

"Rheinmetall and Diehl have agreed to a joint venture in the U.S., not only on the know-how but possibly also furnishing machinery, technicians, etc., and whatever is necessary for a profitable U.S. venture. "They are very much interested in Curtiss-Wright or a similar firm . . .

"My recommendation that my brother Max and Mr. Wiggins fly over to Germany to discuss the technical aspect and also the possibility of cooperating with Curtiss-Wright or other firms was accepted. They have set the week of June 26 to July 1 for such a meeting . . .

The Wiggins referred to above is Charles Wiggins, a Washington public relations man who has had a problem with alcohol. He was arrested in the District of Columbia for drunkenness on February 7, 1965.

Klein, of course, was not aware that if the Rheinmetall-Diehl combine got established in the USA his firm might handle its public relations. The memo stated: "Of course I haven't discussed any extra arrangements for JKPR (Julius Klein Public Relations, Inc.) with Mr. Diehl yet, as after all I do represent Rheinmetall already. But this will be done at a later date after Rheinmetall and Diehl conclude their own agreement and then Mr. Caesar will urge Mr. Diehl to make an agreement with us too . . .

"It was no use for me to discuss this agreement until Rheinmetall and Diehl conclude their own binding agreement."

After further discussing plans to manufacture the Hispano-Suiza 20 mm cannon, Gen. Klein concluded: "This covers in a thumbnail the result of my meeting, and I am satisfied. Of course we will have to discuss all possibilities when I return. I will also be guided by the advice of the Chicago and Washington JKPR staff."

Note: The official position of the Johnson Administration regarding Rheinmetall was outlined March 7, 1966, by Assistant Secretary of State Douglas McArthur II as follows:

"It appears that of the five present principal officers of Rheinmetall A.G., three were members of the Nazi party during World War II. Of these five members, two, including one of the Nazi party members, were plant managers of Rheinmetall Borsig A.G. during the war. The degree of active involvement in Nazi party activities by the three wartime members is not known."

After You, Alfonso!

HARRISBURG — Columnist's Notebook:

After You, Alfonso!—It seemed to be a pure case of graciousness between the House of Representatives and the Senate this week as each fidgeted on the nagging tax increase front, awaiting the move of the other.

The House leadership was the first to initiate the after-you-Alfonse stance when the thought was offered over the week end that it would await action by the Senate on the already House-passed $130 million tax increase in business and cigarette taxes before trying to move the $160 million balance of the Governor's proposed near-$300 million tax increase package.

With the House cleared tax portion in their collective laps, Senate leaders at the beginning of the week allowed as how it would perhaps be better after all to await clearance of the entire tax package rather than just taking up part of it.

As a result, both House and Senate fiddled on the tax front—the Senate in early week staying away from calling up the bills it had in lap when administration Republicans found in caucus that two GOP senators could not be counted upon.

Meanwhile Pennsylvania now is rounding out the third month of the new fiscal year with a tax solution still hanging fire. Higher Education Circuit-It may come as somewhat of a surprise to many to know that there are 119 institutions of higher education within the confines of the Keystone State which are legally authorized to grant degrees. At least this is the total according to the latest compilation by the State Department of Public Instruction.

The 119 includes colleges, universities and seminaries. The listing shows 19 private junior colleges authorized to grant degrees, plus 12 public community colleges.

In addition, there are 32 off-campus centers, of which number Penn State maintains 18, the University of Pittsburgh, four Temple University, three; Indiana University of Pennsylvania, two; Edinboro State College, two; Clarion State College, one; Slippery Rock State College, one, while the University Center at Harrisburg is maintained by the University of Pennsylvania, Penn State, Temple, Lebanon Valley College and Elizabethtown College.

Footnote On Progress—When the Indiana University of Pennsylvania (nee Indiana State College, Indiana State Teachers College, Indiana State Normal School) opened its doors for the fall term this week, the enrollment was projected as more than 6700 students, with nearly 6000 on the main campus, plus 290 at the Pottsville tawney branch campus and 475 at the Kittanning branch campus.

The size of the IUP student body (the largest incidentally of any of the fourteen state-owned institutions of higher learning) is perhaps of more than passing interest when one stops to recall that Penn State (now around the 25,000 mark) less than 25 years ago didn't have a student body the size of that now going through IUP!

Don't Fuss The Hens!—In the current issue of "Game News" the official publication of the Senate Game Commission, District Game Protector R. C. Feaster, of Chester, reports an incident that seemingly ruffled a few feathers.

He answered a call from a local utility on a report that one of their servicemen had seen an injured hen pheasant near the road, had picked up the bird and placed it in the back seat of the car and that the bird seemed in good condition. Protector Feaster suggested on the phone that he release it, but to use his own words: "He (the utility serviceman) said there was an additional problem. It seems the hen had laid an egg on the back seat of the car and was sitting on it!"

Pope Paul VI

Pope May Forego Operation

By ROBERT C. DOTY
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
ROME — The operation on Pope Paul VI for correction of a prostatic block may be put off for as long as two months if present treatment with drugs keeps the conditions from becoming acute, according to Vatican sources.

This postponement was said to be the desire of the Pontiff so he could follow and to some extent participate in the meeting of a synod of representative world prelates Sept. 29 to Oct. 29 and a world congress of the laity, Oct. 11 to 28.

But there was still the possibility, reported as a probability by Vatican sources, that the operation would take place within the next week if the acute condition should recur.

"The Holy Father, who has passed a night of full repose, received this morning his excellency Monsignor Sergio Pignedoli (Titular Archbishop of Iconio) Secretary of the Sacred Congregation for Propagation of the Faith, for the dispatch of affairs concerning that sacred ministry," said the daily bulletin of the Osservatore Romano, official Vatican newspaper.

Vatican sources could recall no instance of a Pontiff undergoing surgery and the incapacitation of Pope Paul even for a relatively short operation, would pose problems of authority.

Appalachia Debate Is Loud and Angry

By MARJORIE HUNTER
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The House voted last night to extend the Appalachia aid program, but only after cutting $50 billion from the $220 million sought by the administration.

The vote for passage, 189 to 188, came after a day of bitter debate. At one point, the House came close to killing the program entirely.

Voting for passage were 154 Democrats and 35 Republicans. Voting against were 123 Republicans and 45 Democrats.

A similar bill passed the Senate with relative ease some weeks ago. Differences between the Senate and House versions will be worked out in conference.

The loud and angry house debate, extending far into the evening, reflected the growing frustrations of Congress over the spiraling deficit, the war in Vietnam, President Johnson's proposed tax increase, rioting in the cities and a host of other national problems.

As approved by the House, the bill would extend for two years the special federal aid program enacted in 1965 for economically depressed Appalachia, a region extending from southwestern New York state to northern Alabama.

The administration had sought $293 million in authorizations for the two year period. The Senate raised this to $273.7 million; the House Public Works Committee trimmed it down to $220 million; and the House yesterday cut it back to $170 million.

LOOKS LIKE EAR TROUBLE

Johnson appeared to be cleaning their ears in unison as the 33rd annual session came to a close Wednesday.

DISEASE AFFECTING BRAIN

Link Measles, Fatal Illness

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Scientists see probable links between measles infections and a mysterious disease affecting the brain and central nervous system that is virtually always fatal.

The nature of the suspected link between the measles virus and the obscure brain disease is still unknown, but experts seem to have few remaining doubts that it exists.

Scientific excitement over the new evidence stems from the hope that it will provide a model for better understanding of some important and widespread diseases whose causes are unknown. Multiple sclerosis and major rheumatic diseases were cited among these at a news conference yesterday.

The brain disease is thought to kill at least 100 Americans of school age every year. The illness seems to run its course in about a year, starting insidiously with sudden difficulties in school and personality changes in its young victims. Later the patient shows signs of brain damage with a tendency to stumble and fall for no apparent reason. The final stage involves convulsions and coma. Incases studied to date, measles infection has come four to 17 years before the fatal illness.

The fatal brain disease is called subacute sclerosing panencephalitis. It also has many other names, including Dawson's inclusion encephalitis.

Wednesday the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness held an international meeting of experts in the field. Yesterday four of the specialists discussed the situation at a news conference at the institute in Bethesda, Md.

They said the evidence linking the rare brain disease with measles virus is strong, but not yet conclusive. They believe more research is urgently needed.

Cambodia Said Veering Away From Peking

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the Cambodian chief of state, appears to American observers to be veering away from Peking and assuming a more strictly neutralist position. This, U.S. sources say, may permit an eventual diplomatic reconciliation with the United States.

Recently, the prince has recalled Cambodian diplomats from Peking, although he has not broken diplomatic relations with China. He has dismissed two pro-Peking cabinet ministers in his government and has cracked down on pro-Chinese newspapers by suspending publication of all privately owned newspapers in Cambodia.

Whether these anti-Peking gestures were prompted by domestic political tensions within Cambodia or were influenced by the course of the Vietnamese war or were simply impetuous moves by the unpredictable prince remains unclear to U.S. analysts.

Their appraisal is that probably all three factors have contributed to his apparent movement away from a stance of neutrality that leaned toward Peking and, to a lesser degree, toward Hanoi.

Short Patrolmen

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — Jamestown Police Chief John Paladino announced yesterday that his department is currently short several patrolmen. The chief noted that Monday, Sept. 18, is the last day to file an application for the civil service exam.

Discuss Future Of Local Campus Scene

Warren Higher Education Board met last night at Warren Campus of Edinboro State College.

The main topic of discussion was the needs of our community and what direction the college will take in the future.

Howard Thompson, chairman, suggested a survey be made of some of the two-year colleges in our area.

The Warren Campus is supported by the administration of Edinboro State College. This year's enrollment is 262. There are 100 out of the county students now living in Warren. The faculty of the campus includes seven full-time instructors and three commuting from Edinboro, plus Hank Johnson, administrator.

Ike Gets Kudos

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree Sept. 26 at the Johnstown campus of the University of Pittsburgh.

The administration had sought $293 million in authorizations for the two year period. The Senate raised this to $273.7 million; the House Public Works Committee trimmed it down to $220 million; and the House yesterday cut it back to $170 million.

School Paper's Stand Said Causing $ Loss

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A University of Pennsylvania alumnus reportedly has withdrawn a $250,000 bequest from the institution because of an editorial in the school newspaper calling for the resignation of university president Gaylord P. Harnwell.

The paper, The Daily Pennsylvanian, in a copyrighted story yesterday, said James Miller-Gicker of Philadelphia, informed them of the withdrawal in a telephone call.

The editorial, portions of which were picked up in newspapers and quoted on the radio, appeared last April 27.

The Daily Pennsylvanian quoted Gicker as saying the university would "pay" for the way the editorial was handled.

Jefferson B. Fordham, dean of Penn's law school of which Gicker is a graduate, refused to comment other than to point out that a bequest is "only a piece of paper until the person dies and happily this gentleman has not died."

The paper quoted Gicker as saying: "Before Dr. Harnwell gets stopped out over the airwaves of a 30-state area I think the graduate alumnus, who have nothing but love in their hearts for the university, should be consulted."

The editorial in question suggested the 63-year-old Harnwell should step aside in favor of a younger man. It criticized him for his role in germ warfare studies which had been conducted by the university until recently.

VIET KIDS LEFT HOMELESS

Temporarily homeless, these South Vietnamese children await transportation from their old home on the Nam Tran Peninsula. Elements of the 196th Light Infantry are helping in a resettlement program involving 5,000 Vietnamese in the area. It is the largest resettlement move since the evacuation of the Iron Triangle and the Demilitarized Zone.

Judge Rules that Xmas Stamps are Legally OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge Alexander Holtzoff ruled yesterday that the Post Office Department's issuance of its annual Christmas stamp does not violate constitutional guarantees of separation of church and state.

Holtzoff denied a request by a Protestant group for an injunction to prevent the Post Office from issuing a Christmas stamp this year. And he said that while the Constitution "provided for a separation of church and state," it did not, however, prescribe a separation of religion and state.

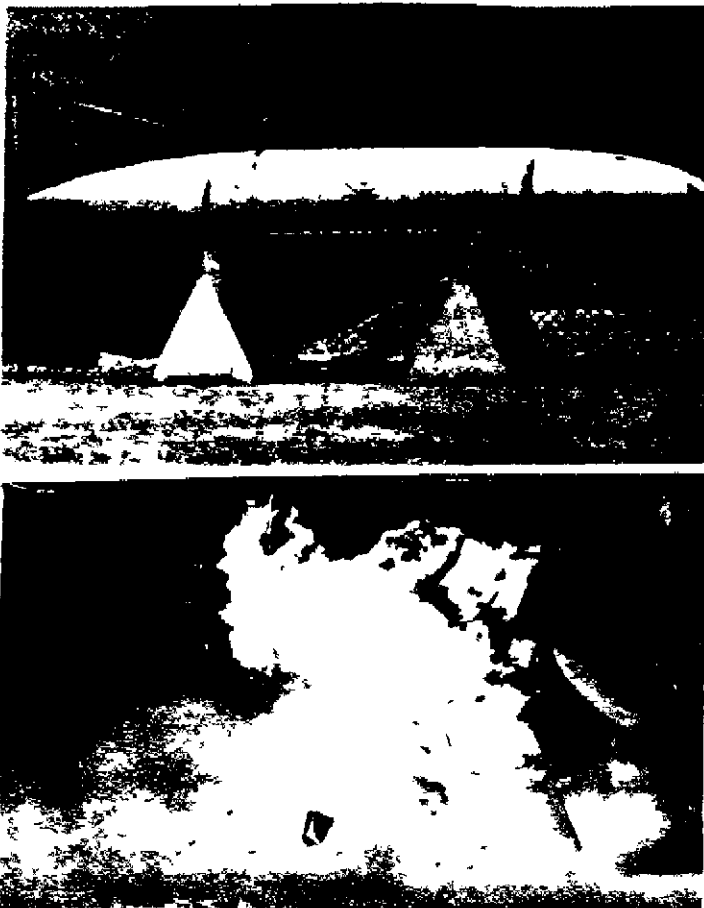

Holtzoff ruled in a case filed by Protestants and other Americans United for Separation of Church and State. The group sought a preliminary injunction to prevent Postmaster Gen. Lawrence F. O'Brien from printing or issuing this year's Christmas stamp.

The Protestants asked that O'Brien be stopped from printing a stamp with "a religious symbol commonly associated with the Roman Catholic Church," Noel H. Thompson, lawyer for the Protestant group said he plans to appeal the decision.

The stamp features a five-color reproduction of Hans Memling's 15th century masterpiece "Madonna and Child with Angel." The original hangs in Washington's National Gallery of Art.

Open Church

Open Church will be observed on Saturday, September 16 by Miss Mary Jo McGraw who will be united in marriage to John Rondinelli. The nuptials will be held in St. John's Roman Catholic Church at 11 a.m. Miss McGraw is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McGraw and the prospective groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rondinelli.

SECRET FOAM QUELLS FIRE

The Air Force took the wraps off a secret material Wednesday that can be used to virtually eliminate explosions and fires in airplane fuel tanks. In the top photo a tracer bullet is fired into a fuel tank containing jet fuel. With a polyurethane foam inside the tank no fire results. In a tank without the foam (bottom) a tracer fired into it creates a violent explosion and fire.

Widow is Presented With Medals

Medals and decorations awarded the late 1st Lt. David G. Myers of State College were presented to his widow, Mrs. Christine P. Myers of Frederick, Md., at recent ceremonies at the Pentagon.

1st Lt. Myers was a brother of Dr. Charles S. Myers of Warren, a staff member at Warren Dental Arts.

1st Lt. Myers was killed piloting a Marine Corps helicopter on reconnaissance mission in Vietnam last June 8.

The Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal and Gold Stars in lieu of his second through 14th Air Medals, the Purple Heart, the National Defense Service Medal, the Vietnam Service Medal and the Republic of Vietnam Campaign Medal were presented by Acting Secretary of the Navy, Robert H. B. Baldwin.

Born Sept. 19, 1943 in Bellefonte, Pa., Myers was a graduate of Penn State University and commissioned a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve in 1965. He earned the rank of 1st Lt. while serving at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

In addition to his wife and brother, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Myers and another brother, Gary of State College.

Rate Cut Reprieve Is Given to AT&T

By STEPHEN M. AUG
WASHINGTON (AP) — American Telephone & Telegraph Co. won from the Federal Communications Commission yesterday a $20 million temporary reprieve in the $120 million telephone rate cut it is being required to make, and an added profit of about $12 million a year.

But in a 7-0 decision the commission stood firm in its July 5 decision that Bell System profits should be in the 7 to 7½ per cent range. It emphasized, however, that 7½ per cent is not an absolute ceiling and could change with economic conditions.

The FCC ordered AT&T to file by Oct. 2 a plan to cut long distance rates by $100 million a year starting Nov. 1. A further cut of $20 million is scheduled to become effective next May 1.

AT&T, a corporate entity that stands atop the operating, manufacturing and research facilities of the Bell System, also asked the FCC to reduce from $120 million to $75 million the reduction in long distance rates it had ordered. AT&T said it sought the cut to provide $45 million annually to cover further increased payments to independent telephone companies which handle Bell System long distance calls.

AT&T also asked that all investment from investor-supplied funds be included in its rate base—the amount of Bell System property used as a base on which profits are figured. The company also asked for a profit range of 7½ to 8½ per cent and urged the FCC to hear more evidence on the highly technical issue of separations.

How AT&T's properties are divided to determine what part is used for local service and what part for interstate service.

The commission agreed to have its technical experts study further AT&T documents on the separations issue, with a written report to the commission no later than Nov. 15.

The FCC also revoked an earlier order and permitted AT&T to earn a profit on an additional $44 million.

HUMANE SOCIETY'S SIDEWALK FESTIVAL ENTRIES

Hurricane Beulah Renews Her Fury

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Beulah renewed her fury in the warm waters of the Caribbean yesterday and veered to a collision course with western Cuba and the Cayman Islands.

Packing winds up to 90 miles an hour, Beulah was about 600 miles south of Miami but forecasters said she would not be a threat to the U.S. mainland for at least 48 hours.

Meanwhile, Hurricanes Doria and Chloe churned over a vast area of Atlantic waters as gale warnings were posted for the New England coast.

Dr. Robert Simpson, director, designate of the National Hurricane Center, said Beulah's course late yesterday "poses a definite threat to the Cayman Islands and Western Cuba."

Simpson urged immediate hurricane precautions in the Cayman Islands, a group of small islands south of Cuba, and warned western Cuba to prepare for fast protective action today.

Beulah, demoted to a tropical storm after killing at least 18 persons in the eastern Caribbean, regained hurricane intensity yesterday morning. It was expected to continue its growth as it swept across the warm waters.

Simpson said it was too early to predict which U.S. coastal areas, if any, would be affected by the killer hurricane. The center earlier had warned southern Florida residents to keep in touch with the latest advisories.

Humane Society Will Show Dogs

The Humane Society is showing homeless dogs during the Sidewalk Festival Days to be held here today and Saturday.

The dogs, to be shown on Second ave. across from the K of C Hall, include a Husky, Boxer types, hound types and collies.

The dogs, both male and female, range in size from mere puppies to full grown house pets.

Knight, Dragon Gridders on Road Tonite

Eisenhower 11 Opening At Gowanda

Eisenhower High School opens its 1967 football season under the lights at Gowanda, N.Y., tonight and the Knights may find themselves in the toughest game of the season.

The Knights will be hampered because Dick Hale, Mark Briggs, and Andy Baska are benched because of injuries. All three would have been starters on the Knight offensive and were an asset to the team.

Coach John Lassinger will be forced to rely upon speed and experience to gain the upper hand. A maneuverable offense, with each Knight doing his job, could clinch the game for Eisenhower.

Gowanda has a new mentor this year as Howard Hillis resigned his head football coaching position of 27 years in favor of assistant Ernie Bareham. Bareham came to Gowanda in 1933 and since that time has been assistant football coach and has built the Panthers into an area wrestling power.

The Gowanda attack will be powered by a line averaging 180 pounds, with two tackles each weighing 210. An experienced quarterback, who earned a SFC honorable mention last season and two lanky ends will be the key to the offense.

In the backfield, the Knights and Panthers will be pretty even as Gowanda has no returnees and the Knight backfield has been rebuilt because of injuries.

This may be the toughest game the Knights play, mainly because of their handicap. However, Lassinger is not about to settle for a loss the first game, and neither is the squad.

Kickoff time tonight is 7:30.

Bears Post 5-3 Wins on Diamond

The East Forest Bears downed North Clarion last night in diamond action, 5-3. Rick Andress picked up the win for the Bears. Dennis Hoover moved the Bears along with a triple as Pastalock, Gatesmen, and Adams all clubbed singles.

Bill Zachere suffered the loss for North Clarion.

TAKING A RIBBING

Craig Morton (left) number two quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys, takes much interest in Dor Meredith's bruised ribs. If the injury affects Meredith's ability to throw Sunday, in the Cowboys' opener at Cleveland, Morton will get the call.

Browns' quarterback Frank Ryan and flanker Gary Collins both sustained injuries in practice yesterday, but are expected to be ready. (See story below left)

Browns' Ryan And Collins Both Injured

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Browns quarterback Frank Ryan and Garv Collins, one of Ryan's favorite receivers, were injured in practice yesterday.

Ryan suffered a sprained right ankle and Collins a pulled leg muscle while working out for Sunday's National Football League game against the Dallas Cowboys.

Trainer Leo Murphy gave Ryan an ice pack, taped the ankle and said he thought the Browns' No. 1 passer would be ready for the game. Collins visited Dr. Vic Ippolito, the team physician, who prescribed rest and said he thought Collins also would be ready.

The Browns traded away veteran quarterback Jim Nicoski, who was Ryan's backup man for several years, early in the training season. They got Dick Shiner, also a veteran passer, from Washington in that trade.

Either Shiner or Gary Lane, a second-year man, would start Sunday if Ryan does not respond to treatment.

Dragon Golf Team Takes Three-Way Section Play

Warren Area High School's golf team hung up its second and third Section II victories without a defeat yesterday by whipping both Oil City and Cranberry in a triangular match on the Ollers course. The Dragon linksters tripped the 'Berries, 12-4 and routed the host team, 14-1-1-2.

Freshman Larry Roth came through to fire an 84 to lead all but one of the Dragon golfers, Matt Voigt with an 81. He will be starting in the number two against Oil City on the Conewango Valley Country Club course on Monday.

Individual results of yesterday's play was as follows:

Matt Voigt (W) 39-42-51, Bob Ricketts (OC) 45-45-50, Jeff Lenar (C) 37-40-77.

Larry Anderson (W) 41-44-85, Chuck Motler (OC) 47-39-86, Tom Barber (C) 45-43-88.

Pat Murphy (W) 42-49-91, John Levine (OC) 63-36-119, Tom Neely (C) 45-46-91.

Larry Roth (W) 43-41-84, Conrad Rosinski (OC) 55-55-110, David Thompson (C) 47-46-93.

Harriers Run 3-Way Today

Warren Area High School's cross country team travels to Franklin today for a triangular meet with the Knights and Meadville.

Next meet for the Blue and White is Tuesday when Coach Andy Randas' team hosts Oil City at 4 p.m. on the WAHS course.

Sugar Grove Club Holds Trap Shoot

The Sugar Grove Trap Club will hold a shoot on Saturday at the club's range. Regular trap will be the order of the day starting at 10 a.m.

The club's range Club is located on the Jackson Run Road south of Sugar Grove.

Warren Faces Stiff Battle at Franklin

There's an old saying in sports that goes "You can't be the champ unless you beat the champ," and that's the position Warren's football team finds itself in tonight.

The Dragons, who have aspirations of winning the first Section II title since 1955, travel to Franklin to meet the defending Knights in what shapes up as the most crucial game of the season for both clubs.

The Blue and White has been edged in the last two games by powerful Knight clubs, falling 22-19 last season after throwing a scare into the eventual conference winners.

The Knights lost some of their stars to graduation, including halfback Paul "Red" Law and quarterback Dave Bierbach, but still have plenty of talent around, as witnessed by last Friday's 31-7 romp over Erie Academy.

The Lawrence brothers have been receiving all the raves around Franklin this season. Rolland "Bay" Lawrence is at quarterback and Roland "Curt" Lawrence is at half.

Ten other lettermen are back for the Knights including Tim Law (6-2, 190), Red's brother, at end and 260-pound tackle Bill Keely, a defensive specialist. Other veterans in the line include guard Fred Blackhurst (180) and tackle Rod Adams (180).

Dave Stewart, in his second season as head mentor, has compiled an 18-2 mark at Franklin and will be looking for the 19th victory tonight.

Dragon Coach Toby Shea reports few changes in the Blue and White's starting lineups. Either senior Rick Brewster or junior Tom Potter will get the call at wingback and junior John Marchione will be the rightside linebacker on defense.

The Knights can be expected to try to grind out yardage over their right tackle, where the Dragons are strongest with tackle Darrell Pusateri, end Ray Lowe and linebacker Steve Tundel, but will also run the ends and put the ball in the air.

They scored against Academy on a long pass on the third play of the game last week.

The Lawrence brothers are dangerous on kickoff and punt returns, both have good speed, and the Dragons must contain them to win.

Shea will rely on halfback Dan O'Neil, fullback Tundel and quarterback Ed O'Neil to carry the game to the host team. Franklin's poor lighting system will hamper Warren's attempt to pass successfully.

The Dragons hold a 27-10-2 advantage in a long association dating back to 1912, but the Knights have come on strong in recent years to close the gap. From 1921 to 1944, Warren won 14 straight, but then quarterback Ted Marchbroda, now Pittsburgh Steelers and ex-assistant coach with the Los Angeles Rams, engineered the Knights to three triumphs in a row.

Stewart scouted the Corry game and was quoted in the Franklin press as saying "They (Warren) can and did hit." Earlier in the season he said, "Our defense will possibly be tougher this year than it was last season. . . This team is in the best physical shape of any team I've been associated with since coming to Franklin."

Shea and the Dragons also pride themselves on being well conditioned.

It should be a whale of a ballgame.

Starting offensive lineups will be as follows:

Plan Golf Team At Warren EOC

The Warren Campus of Edinboro State College is forming a golf team this fall. Mr. Roy Brant has been appointed coach and is presently attempting to schedule matches with other teams for the Spring season.

A Fall season will be considered if one or more matches can be scheduled. Girls as well as boys are urged to participate.

Any students interested are to report to room eight during the dinner hour tonight. Those students unable to attend are asked to leave their names with Mr. Brant.

More Predictions

Alright, so we missed a couple, but for the first week of the season six right, three wrong and one tie (which we will count as a wrong guess because we're gracious losers) isn't too bad.

The losses by Youngsville and Sheffield hurt our average the most and from now on we're picking all games from the head and not from the heart.

We picked Ridgway's victory over Kane correctly, not really an upset according to Elker fans, and went along with the Erie papers about East's chances against Beaver Falls.

Several local fans pointed out that we missed the score on the Warren-Corry game by a pretty good margin (we predicted 33-7, but gave us two passes knocked away in the endzone, no fumble on the Beavers' two-yard line and no fumble on the first play from scrimmage in the second half and figure it out again).

Last week's breakdown went like this, with our predicted score in parentheses:

Closest pick—Uniontown 39, Erie Tech 6 (Uniontown 45, Erie Tech 0).

Biggest miss—Titusville 33, Oil City 0 (Oil City 25, Titusville 13. Who said the Oilers are loaded this year?).

Others correct—Bradford 33, Johnsonburg 13 (Bradford 39, Johnsonburg 0); Ridgway 32, Kane 7 (Ridgway 21, Kane 0); Greenville 20, Meadville 12 (Greenville 15, Meadville 0); Erie East 21, Beaver Falls 6 (Erie East 14, Beaver Falls 13); Add Warren and Uniontown, that's six.

Other misses—Union City 6, Conneaut Valley 6 (Conneaut Valley 20, Union City 6). Add Youngsville, Sheffield and Titusville, that's four.

This week we see:

Franklin 19, Warren 14

We base our prediction on two known facts (1) that the Dragons can't play like they did at Corry and expect to beat the Knights and (2) that the game is being played on the Franklin field. The Knights are defending their crown and know that ill-lit gridiron like the back of their hands. Only a perfect game can win it for the Blue and White.

Eisenhower 20, Gowanda 7

Even with three starters on the sideline, the Knights are a better team than the New Yorkers. It's the opener for both teams and the experienced Knights should make fewer mental and mechanical errors than the Panthers.

Port Allegany 21, Sheffield 13

The Gators ripped Coudersport last week and the Wolverines looked inept losing to Otto-Eldred, a team they should have handled easily. Port has Kris McDowell and some other good backs and Wolverine fullback Ray McDonald may not be up to par after a heel infection.

Youngsville 20, Cambridge Springs 6

Both teams were shutout last weekend, but the Eagles are a better ballclub than they showed at General McLane. Besides, the Blue Devils are hopefully thin. Both teams are under new head coaches, and the Red and White should rebound to get back on the victory path.

Oil City 14, Corry 6

After last week's results it would appear that the Beavers would be the logical choice in this one, but we've received reports that quarterback Denny Harrison won't be playing. Loren Stockton can't carry the whole load, and besides, the Oilers have to be a better ballclub than they showed against Titusville. If Harrison plays, it's 20-14 in Corry's favor. (How's that for an "out"?)

Smethport 25, Otto-Eldred 12

Smethport's one of the powers in the Allegheny Mountain League this year and the Terriers were playing over their heads against Sheffield (we hope).

Sagertown 33, Union City 12

The Panthers blasted George Junior, 46-19 last week and the Bears after holding Conneaut Valley to a tie, won't be "up" again this week.

Silver Creek 19, Fredonia 13

Don't know anything at this stage about either teams, but the 'Creekers have been playing pretty good football for the past few seasons and rate the nod.

Casting A Giant Shadow

NEW YORK—When Buster Mathis outpointed Joe Frazier to win the heavyweight designation in the 1964 final Olympic tryout tournament, Buster weighed 315 pounds. He was astonishingly nimble at that displacement but he had it nonetheless. Now he is only a shadow of what he once was, a comparatively delicate and attenuated 245 pounds.

At long last, though, he is making a belated entrance into the heavyweight picture. On Monday he will meet rugged Ron Marsh, a reformed football player from Kansas, in the feature 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden. But Buster has a lot of catching up to do if he ever is to attain his goal, the Heavyweight Championship of the World. He was marking time while Frazier zoomed up to high rank as a potential successor to Cassius Clay—pro tem or otherwise.

It's odd how the Mathis-Frazier fortunes have been intertwined. Big Buster defeated the squat Joe in the Olympic tryouts. Then he did it again in San Francisco during a dress rehearsal match just before the Olympic team left for Tokyo. But in the first round Mathis broke a knuckle on his right hand on Frazier's head. So it was Joe who went to Japan and won the Olympic championship while Buster watched from ringside. "This could have been mine," muttered Buster, the reluctant spectator.

When both turned pro under syndicate sponsorship, Frazier was brought along cleverly. He made a steady climb up the ladder, each foe being just a little tougher than the previous one. Now he is in so exalted a position that the winner of the World Boxing Association elimination tournament cannot be regarded as No. 1 unless he has first beaten Frazier.

Mathis landed on a treadmill. He was turned over to Gus D'Amato, the super-cautious character who sees goblins under beds and who thinks everyone in the fist-cliffing racket is conspiring against him. Cantankerous Gus kept Floyd Patterson in cotton batting and chopped years off Jose Torre's career by being overly protective.

Big Buster was fed pabulum, a steady diet of soft touches. Even babies are taken off pabulum after a while and given more solid food. Mathis was not. Finally the syndicate's principal owners, Jimmy Iselin and Mike Martin, unloaded Gus—or think they did. Gus is now suing them. At any rate Buster is being trained by the competent Joe Fariello and making progress. "I'd like to fight Frazier," Mathis said wistfully yesterday. "I'll fight him either before or after he's met the elimination tournament winner. I feel that I can beat him. The one thing I want most in this world is to be the heavyweight champion."

Whoa, Buster! Don't be in such a hurry. At the age of 23 he still has time. A year ago, when Frazier was advancing to the forefront, his shrewd trainer, Yancey Durham, threw a quick hobbler on all pretensions.

"We're not ready for Clay yet," he said. "May be in another year or two we will be."

Mathis also isn't ready. But at least he's on his way, Marsh, who has some fancy ideas of his own, will be a formidable enough foe at this stage in Buster's development.

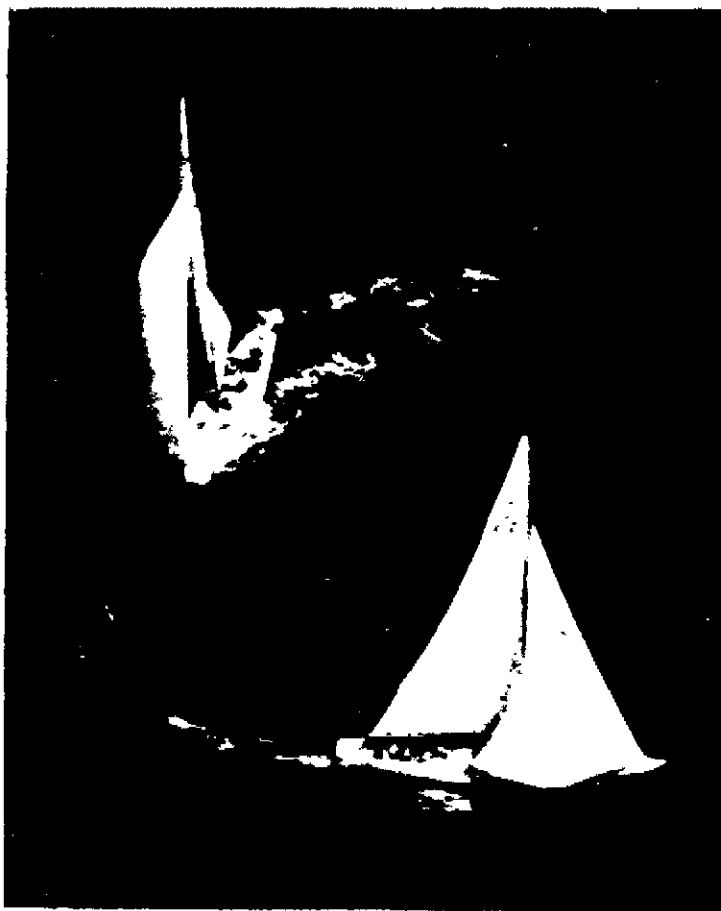

"My trainer tells me," said Buster, "that it will be another seven or eight months before I reach my peak. I've started to throw combinations and to hook off the jab. They come fast and hard. I'm also breaking myself of the habit of holding my hands low."

"Maybe that's why Jimmy Ellis, seeing me for the first time the other day, said I reminded him of Clay. Like him, I do this when I'm confident I can't get hit. But I can see the logic in keeping my hands up at all times and I intend to do it."

What made Buster such an eye-catching performer in his Olympic days was that he could move with the agility of a ballet-dancer in spite of all the weight.

"I guess I had that talent all along," he said. "I don't know where it came from but I'm lucky, I guess, that I have it. I was always light on my feet and I love to dance. I fight on my toes although most fighters punch flat-footed, except maybe Muhammad Ali and Jimmy Ellis."

Another of the elimination matches will be piped back by satellite Saturday from Frankfurt, Germany. It will bring together Karl Mildenberger, the European champion, and Oscar Bonavena, the South American. Big Buster will watch it for future reference. Then he'll conclude preparations for his Garden fight Monday, hoping this will serve as the vehicle for getting him off the ground and into delayed orbit.

DUEL IN THE SUN

Dame Pattie, Australian challenger for yachting's America's Cup, makes her tack ahead of a pursuing Intrepid, U.S. defender, early in Wednesday's race. The U.S. boat came on to this one and triumphed again yesterday to take a 3-0 edge in the best-of-seven series. The fourth race is slated for tomorrow. (See story at right)

Milde Favored to Handle Bonavena, Fight's on TV

By KEITH WOOLHOUSE
FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — K a r l Mildenberger, Germany's quiet man of boxing, and Oscar Bonavena, Argentina's man of words, join the quest tomorrow night to become heavyweight champion of the world.

Mildenberger, rated as the leading contender by the World Boxing Association and Bonavena, listed No. 3, meet in a scheduled 12-rounder in an open air stadium in an elimination bout for the title taken from Cassius Clay.

For sheer confidence, the shaggy-haired Argentine is in a class of his own. He has predicted that Mildenberger, European champion, will go in the sixth—the victim of a left hook and considerable Bonavena brainwashing.

But the bookies don't share Bonavena's faith. They've made Mildenberger a 4-1 favorite and the odds are that the fight will go the distance and Mildenberger will win on points.

Mildenberger, himself, isn't talking. "How do you see the fight going?" he was asked. "I can not say anything about that. I don't know. If I say one thing and the opposite happens then I'd look stupid. Ask me after the fight how it went and I'll tell you anything you want to know."

If Bonavena does upset the odds it may well occur in the early rounds. There's no doubt that Bonavena packs a heavy punch and is a fast starter. He has knocked out 23 of his 31 opponents, the majority of them before the fourth round.

One that got away was Joe Frazier of Philadelphia, who Bonavena dropped twice in the second round. Bonavena failed to follow up his advantage and lost a 10-round decision.

That's the danger for Mildenberger, a slow starter who likes to move around in the early rounds getting the feel of the fight. He might still be able to do this against Bonavena, whose mobility is cut down by two of the biggest flat feet in the ring.

The fourth bout, between Floyd Patterson and Jerry Quarry, is in Los Angeles on Oct. 28.

The Mildenberger-Bonavena referee is Harry Krause of the United States. Ringside judges are Dr. Jose Stern of Argentina, and Rudolf Drust of West Germany.

Television viewers on both sides of the Atlantic will be able to see a live transmission. American viewers will see it on ABC's Wide World of Sports beginning at 2:30 p.m., EDT.

AUSSIE SKIPPER ASKS FOR DAY'S REST

Intrepid's Turning America's Cup Challenge into Rout, Wins Again

By ART HATTON JR.
NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Intrepid, a white-hulled sailing beauty, just about wrapped up the America's Cup yesterday by routing Australia's Dame Pattie for the third straight day in a one-sided duel of 12-meter yachts.

Now the 64-foot American defender needs only one more victory to end the best-of-seven series between the sleek, expensive craft in Rhode Island Sound.

Not even a detour towards a capsize boat that cost her an estimated 20 seconds, could prevent Intrepid from streaking away from the blue-hulled, 65-foot challenger. She won by more than one-half mile.

Intrepid's time margin of victory was 4 minutes, 41 seconds. She won the first race by 5:58 and the second by 3:36.

Bus Mosbacher, the 46-year-old skipper from White Plains, N.Y., provided another masterful performance in beating his old rival, 52-year-old Jock Sturrock.

Sturrock asked for a lay day, or a day off, and the race committee said the fourth race will be tomorrow.

No boat ever has been able to make up a 3-0 deficit in this storied competition for the old mug, held by the United States for 116 years.

Dame Pattie's challenge is the 20th since 1870 and the U.S.A. never has lost. The Americans have captured three of the last four series by 4-0 scores. In the other, in 1962, Mosbacher, at the helm of the Weatherly, beat Sturrock's Gretel, 4-1, in Australia's first challenge.

Sturrock got the Dame off to the lead in a 15-knot northerly breeze but it wasn't long before Mosbacher had the Intrepid in front on the choppy sea.

Intrepid had about a minute lead when her crew spotted a capsized sailboat in the middle of the course. Mosbacher steered towards the boat but then went back to racing when he saw a Coast Guard helicopter pick up the two men.

Two young students had sailed the 13-footer against a Coast Guard warning—into the course. The helicopter had come out to warn them away but the downdraft from the propellers apparently turned over the boat.

The incident cost Intrepid an estimated 20 seconds and her windward position but not her lead. Mosbacher tacked into a windward position again and finished the windward (against the wind) leg of 4.5 miles with an advantage of 1 minute, 21 seconds.

Dame Pattie gained a second on the second leg of 3.15 miles but on the third leg of the triangle, also over 3.15 miles, Intrepid stretched her lead by 14 more seconds to 1:44.

The wind velocity picked up to 18 to 20 knots for the fourth leg, into the wind for 4.5 miles, and this was just perfect for Intrepid.

She moved strongly into the breeze, adding a whopping 1 minute, 36 seconds to make her margin 3:20—about one-half mile. The race was as good as over.

On the fifth leg, 4.5 miles with the wind, Intrepid increased her margin another 15 seconds to 3:35. The final leg was a joyful cruise for the Americans.

The Aussies asked for the day off in the hope of getting lighter air tomorrow. Intrepid has proved to be far superior in the stronger winds.

Intrepid crossed the finish line at 3:40:14, Dame Pattie at 3:44:55.

Here are the times each passed the six markers, including Intrepid's margins (Intrepid first):

1—1:04:29 to 1:05:50, 1 minute, 21 seconds; 2—1:24:49 to 1:26:49 to 1:26:09, 1:20; 3—1:44:15 to 1:45:59, 1:44; 4—2:28:10 to 2:31:30, 3:20; 5—2:58:11 to 3:01:46, 3:35; 6—3:40:14 to 3:44:55, 4:41.

Bruce Devlin Takes Lead in Philly Play

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Australian Bruce Devlin, who said he has been playing the kind of golf that couldn't even beat his grandmother, led the first round of the $10,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic yesterday with a 7-under-par 65.

The 29-year-old Devlin rolled in putts of 35, 25 twice and 20 feet as he carded birdies in a round of 35-30—65 over the 6,708 yard par-72 Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course. He used only 29 putts and twice on the back nine fired three consecutive birdies.

Devlin holds a two-stroke lead over Bill Collins, the 39-year-old part-time pro tourist from Brae Burn Country Club in New York state, and Lou Graham, a comparatively unknown member of the circuit, each with 5-under-par 67s.

Collins, who is 51st on the list of PGA money-winners, broke a PGA record set by Gay Brewer in the Pensacola open last spring when he fired six straight birdies in a 35-32 round.

Graham, a 170-pounder from Nashville, Tenn., who joined the pro tour in 1964 also wielded a red-hot putter with five birdies in a round in which he failed to lose a stroke to par. Although he won the Minneapolis Classic in July and has pocketed $41,842 for his efforts on the tour this year, Graham is relatively unknown to the public.

Another stroke back, grouped at 68, were Mason Rudolph, who had a 72-foot eagle putt; Masters champion Brewer; Miller Barber; Terry Dill; George Archer, Rocky Thompson and Bob Charles. Veteran Billy Casper, winner of the recent Carling World Open, led a group of 69, including Wes Ellis Jr., Billy Maxwell, Lee Trevino, South Africa's Bob Verwey, and Joel Goldstrand of Worthington, Minn.

Arnold Palmer was among 15 deadlocked at 70, while Gary Player shot a 73, including a triple bogey on the 235-yard fourth hole. Defending champion Don January, the 1967 PGA titlist, skied to a 77, then was given permission to withdraw because of fatigue.

January came here with a severe cold caught last weekend when he played in the rain while finishing fourth in the World Series of Golf at Akron, Ohio, to Jack Nicklaus, who bypassed this tournament.

Devlin, who said he has been in a terrible slump, hasn't won a tournament on the PGA circuit since the Colonial at Fort Worth, Tex., in 1966. He attributed his sensational putting to a desperation move—dropping his grip slightly on the club.

"I've been in such a terrible slump, I didn't know how I'd ever get out of it," said Devlin. "I've been on the practice tee trying to get my swing reasonably the same way for each shot."

The super-charged Aussie three-putted the first hole for a bogie but got it back in a hurry with a 20-foot birdie putt on No. 2.

Devlin, a slim blond belter with 158 pounds spread on a 6-foot-1 frame, copped a 45-hole for a birdie on the fourth hole after going one over on the seventh and shot in a six-footer on No. 8 to make the turn in 35.

Devlin earned putts of 25, 15, 5, 25 and 35 feet on the back nine to outdistance the field.

Hightower Says Won't Return To NBA Team

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Wayne Hightower, the first player signed by the Denver Rockets in the new American Basketball Association, said yesterday he has received a contract from his former team, the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association.

Hightower, 6-foot-8-inch veteran of five years in NBA play, said he had talked to Edwin Coll, Pistons general manager. "I told him I was returning the contract," Hightower said.

"I said I had not anticipated receiving a contract because it had been publicly reported through newspaper articles that I didn't figure in Detroit's future plans," the player said.

"As far as I'm concerned, I have no obligation to Detroit. If someone tells you that you don't fit in their future plans, the best thing you can do is to seek other employment."

In Detroit, a Pistons' spokesman said the matter is in the hands of the team's lawyers and that no decision had been made as to the Hightower contract.

BOY, 11, ELECTROCUTED

Patrolman Mike McCrory (left) looks on helplessly as his partner tries vainly to revive an 11-year-old boy who was electrocuted atop a freight car in the New Haven railroad yards in the Bronx, N.Y., Wednesday. Police say the boy, identified as Kevin Petrie, was killed when he climbed atop the car and accidentally touched a power line.

DUE TO POWER PROJECT

Area Megalopolis Predicted

CLEVELAND (AP) — A joint construction program to add 2.85 million kilowatts of power-producing capacity by December 1974 was announced yesterday by five electric utilities serving a 14,000 square-mile area of Western Pennsylvania and northern Ohio.

The joint development of power generating and transmission facilities represents an investment of a half billion dollars, the announcement said. Four generating units are to be built.

Participating companies, whose systems have been interconnected for many years, are Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., Duquesne Light Co., of Pittsburgh, Ohio Edison Co., of Akron, Ohio, Pennsylvania Power Co., and Toledo Edison Co. They form the Central Area Power Coordination Group and serve two million customers.

The five companies have a generating capacity of 7.9 million kilowatts, and the new construction, along with previously announced additions already under construction, will raise the capacity to about 13 million kilowatts.

In simpler terms, that would light up 126 million 100-watt light bulbs — or more than two 100-watt bulbs in every American home.

Philip A. Fieger, Duquesne Light board chairman and chief executive officer, said the new power pool "could mean that this vast area between Pittsburgh and Toledo will become a giant megalopolis."

The first of the four generating units would be jointly owned by Ohio Edison and Duquesne Light and located at Ohio Edison's W. H. Sammis plant on the Ohio River. It would be a coal-fired generating unit of 625,000-kilowatt capacity, scheduled for completion in September, 1971.

Duquesne Light also would share in a 625,000-kilowatt coal-fired generating unit to be installed by Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. in northeast Ohio, with completion in August, 1972.

A nuclear generating unit of 800,000-kilowatt capacity is to be installed by October, 1973, at the Shippingport plant of Duquesne Light on the Ohio River and will be owned jointly with Ohio Edison.

High-Nicotine Tobacco Purchases Cut Sharply

By GENE ROBERTS
(c) N.Y. Times News Service

RALEIGH, N. C.—Cigarette makers are not buying high nicotine tobacco this year. Their sudden turnabout threatens to reduce the incomes of southern tobacco farmers.

The manufacturers refused to discuss their new buying patterns but some say privately that it is designed to meet the criticism of medical authorities who link cigarette smoking and cancer.

Although farmers have long been aware of the smoking controversy, they did not expect cigarette manufacturers to alter the content of their cigarette so dramatically. Thus they were caught with millions of pounds of high-nicotine tobacco, which is grown on the middle and top portions of the tobacco stalk, and relatively little low-nicotine tobacco from the bottom of the stalk.

Tobacco buyers are bidding high for the low-stalk leaf, but much of the high-stalk tobacco is being bought by the government under a price stabilization program—at lower prices than private industry has been paying in the past.

All of this has left tobacco farmers angrier and more disgruntled than they had been since the widespread use of filter cigarettes caused a major revolution in tobacco purchasing a decade ago.

The farmers are talking about little else in tobacco marketing warehouses and the hundreds of small general stores and gas stations in eastern North Carolina—the center of the U.S. bright leaf tobacco production.

Geology and Oil Production Technology Course is Offered

The College of Mineral Industries of The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, again is offering, through its Continuing Education Services, the popular adult education course in Geology and Petroleum Production Technology. This course is now in its sixth season and has been attended by many people interested in the local oil and gas business.

The first half of the course acquaints the student with the basic principles of geology and their application to oil and gas accumulation. The second half reviews the technology of oil and gas production, including the practical application of modern techniques of electrical well logging and hydrofracturing.

This course is offered free of charge and classes will be held one night a week at the Warren Area High School. The instructor is Carl R. Burghardt, company geologist for the Pennsylvania Gas Company. Burghardt is a certified professional geologist with 15 years experience in the oil and gas industry.

This course will be of particular value to all individuals associated with or having an interest in the producing phase of the oil and gas industry. There are no previous educational requirements or prerequisites.

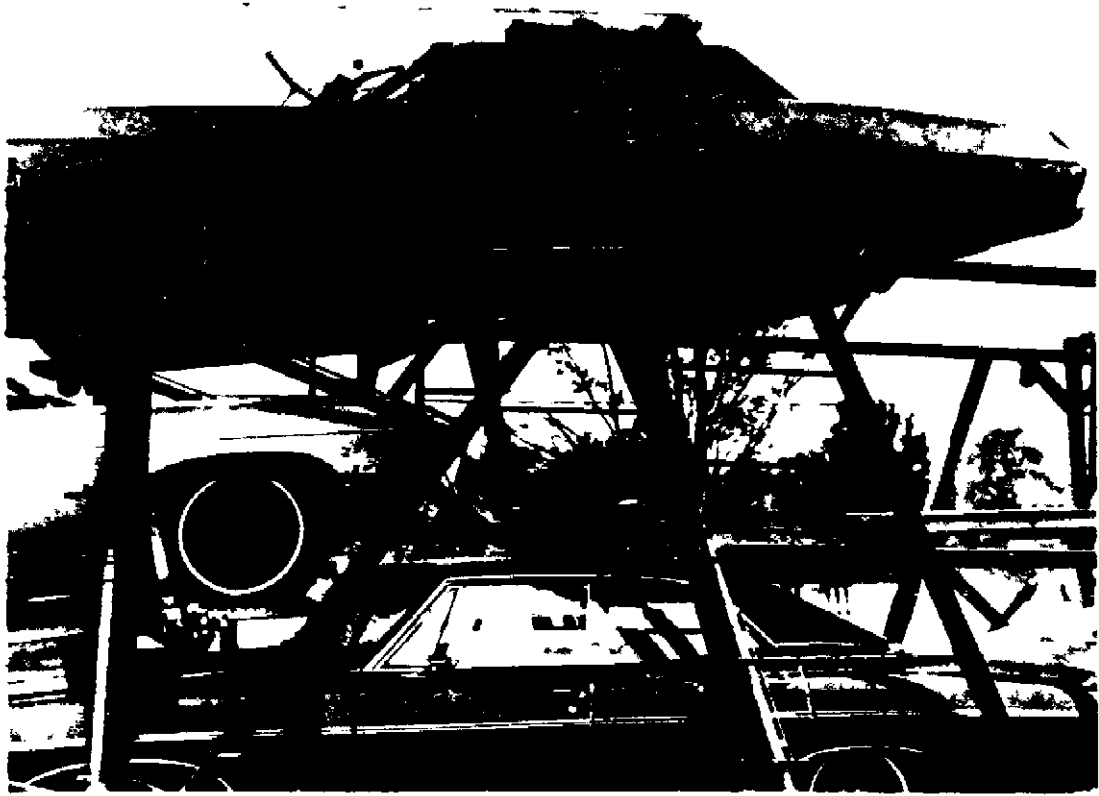

Anyone wishing to register for the course or desiring additional information please contact Mr. Burghardt at the Pennsylvania Gas Company during business hours, or at his home by calling 723-1799. The deadline for registration is September 30th.

Bradford Ranger Gets Fire Duty

Bradford district ranger Ralph Willard, U. S. Forest Service has been temporarily assigned to a fire control position in northern Idaho.

He has been serving as a sector boss on the Trapper Peak fire which has burned over 12,000 acres. This fire was one of several which started at about the same time and rapidly burned large areas of timberland.

Additional men from the Allegheny National Forest could be sent to the west if the fire situation were to get any worse.

INSTANT CONVERTIBLE

A low bridge roof and a 1968 Chevrolet Impala perched atop a car transport created an "instant convertible" last Friday. The incident occurred on the Route 27 bridge in Pittsfield when the new car failed to clear the bridge, which was resurfaced this summer. (Photo by Carl Hazeltine)

Project FIND Elects Advisory Group Officers

At a well represented organization meeting of the advisory committee members for Project FIND held last night in the Hospitality Room of the Northwest Savings and Loan Building, the following officers were elected: chairman, W. Robert Walsh; vice chairman, Lewis L. Crippen; secretary, Irene E. Pollock.

Richard M. Brown, executive director of the Warren-Forest Counties Economic Opportunity Council, Inc., under which Project FIND is being conducted, informed the committee on the operations of the Office of Economic Opportunities several activities in the area such as, programs for the low-income families involving Head Start for pre-school children, Neighborhood Youth Corps for boys and girls between the ages of 15 and 21, training of Homemakers Aides, and Project FIND which is a research project to determine the needs of elderly persons.

Donald E. Taft, supervisor of Project FIND, informed the committee on goals and on progress and accomplishments within the one month of conducting this program. Over 1400 homes have been visited in Warren and Forest counties and 700 questionnaires have been completed on persons over age 55.

Limited service has been extended to needy persons by the 24 community aides employed on this project and referrals of need situations made to the Social Security Administration, Bureau of Employment Security and the Department of Public Assistance.

Driver Nabbed After Chase

Charges were filed yesterday against a Brush Valley, Pa., man residing temporarily in the Warren area as a result of a high speed chase through borough streets late last Saturday night.

Police received a call relative to a disturbance at Riverside Hotel and as they approached the vicinity a car took off at a high rate of speed, officers reported.

Patrons at Riverside advised the occupants of the speeding car were involved in the disturbance. Police gave chase on Pennsylvania ave. at speeds up to 85 mph.

Police said the vehicle was driven by Preston L. Fordyce, 24, who is living in a trailer at Hemlock Trailer Court.

O'Sheill Named Chairman Of UF Professional Division

Rockwell O'Sheill, local attorney with the firm of Blackman, Blackman and O'Sheill, has been appointed chairman for the United Fund's professional division which begins its solicitation on October 3.

The professional division is responsible for contacting physicians, dentists, attorneys, clergymen, insurance, and real estate firms and Mr. O'Sheill will soon appoint team members to call on these persons in the drive for $166,000.

O'Sheill is a native of San Antonio, Texas and attended schools in California before entering college. He was an engineering student at the University of Virginia for two years, then received a bachelor of science degree in accounting from Gannon College. He holds a LL.B. degree from the Dickinson School of Law.

Coming to Warren in 1963 to establish law practice, O'Sheill has become active in many civic affairs. In 1965 he served as president of the Warren Junior Chamber of Commerce and was instrumental in forming the Warren Recreation Fund, Inc.

The following year he served as general chairman of the swimming pool fund raising campaign which produced $180,000 toward the construction of the pool complex.

O'Sheill also has been a member of the Warren Borough Council since 1965 serving on the public safety committee and the planning committee. He is a former board member of Pennsylvania's Singing Boys, is currently a director of the Warren Area Chamber of Commerce, and is a member of the American Bar Association, the Pennsylvania Bar Association, and the Warren County Bar Association of which he is the treasurer.

He and his wife, Susan and their daughter Lavelette reside at 504 Fourth ave. and are members of the Trinity Memorial Episcopal Church.

The General State Authority will open bids in Harrisburg Oct. 4 for drilling and developing of two double water wells.

Woman's Purse Snatched In North Warren Store

A Corry area woman, shopping at Jamesway in North Warren Wednesday, lost $120 in cash, all her credit cards and other items, when her purse was snatched about 4 p.m.

State police trooper Max J. Bizzak of the Warren substation, who investigated, said the victim, Hazel Doris Arnink, 50, of RD 4, Corry was shopping in the store's ladies' department and had left her purse in a shopping cart along with her little niece.

When she turned around the large beige purse with two handles was missing.

According to Bizzak the woman's niece said another woman had bumped the cart but the child did not see the purse taken.

Police said there were not many shoppers in the store at the time but one shopping cart with a few items was located and may have been left by the purse snatcher.

at Corry State Fish Hatchery. The wells were designed by the engineering department of the State Fish Commission. Each well is double-cased and $16,000 allocated for the project. Target date for completion is Jan. 15, 1968.

Parking Tickets

Borough police last month collected $414 in parking tickets. Fines collected, including parking violations and all other borough violations totaled $832.50 while bicycle licenses netted $58.76. Meter collections for August totaled $2,642.58. The mayor was not called upon to issue any special licenses.

Honor First Lady

The Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women honored Mrs. Raymond P. Shafer at a luncheon meeting Wednesday in Harrisburg, praising her work and help to the GOP group. The governor's wife was presented a gold bracelet and charm with the Pennsylvania seal.

New Construction

Construction began Tuesday on the new building to house the Goss Offset press purchased recently by the Ridgway Publishing Co. The building will house the press plus all camera equipment needed for offset printing. The all steel structure will be located one block from the present operation of the publishing company.

Is Recuperating

Archie Franklin is recuperating in Spencer Hospital after fracturing his hip in early August. Mr. Franklin is a retired employee of Warren State Hospital, having been employed there as a carpenter for many years. He celebrates his 88th birthday October 29 and would enjoy hearing from old friends. Address cards to Room 108, Spencer Hospital, Meadville.

To Address Meeting

David Swanson, former chairman and member of Warren County Planning Commission, will address the 1967 planning conference of the Pennsylvania Planning Association. Swanson will discuss "Action Through Planning." The conference opened Wednesday and continues through today at Shennango Inn in Sharon. County Planner Robert Peterson is also in attendance.

Charges Filed Against Teens

CORRY—Charges have been filed and warrants were in the hands of state police here Wednesday in two cases, one an assault with intent to ravish and corrupting the morals of a minor, the other a burglary.

According to Trooper John Evanko, criminal investigator for the Corry substation, the assault charges have been filed against an 18-year-old youth and his 14-year-old companion.

Evanko said that on August 19 the 18-year-old enticed a 4-year-old girl and 5-year-old boy into a barn where the incidents took place in the borough of Hydeltown.

The trooper is expected to make his arrests in a few days. A juvenile petition has been filed against the 14-year-old boy, he said.

The second case in which warrants have been issued involve three adults and a juvenile, who entered a travel trailer owned by Myron James. Evanko said the four entered the unlocked trailer and made off with two .22 rifles sometime in July.

A MILESTONE

Gaughn's Drug Store on Wednesday achieved a remarkable milestone in its long history as "a real drug store." Irvin K. Poust, owner of the firm, was presented a plaque marking the local store's filling of its one millionth prescription, a first in Warren. On hand for the occasion were, from left, Dennis Moore, area representative; W. G. Masur, Pittsburgh division manager, both of E. R. Squibb, Inc.; Poust and pharmacists W. Donald Lyle and Harold B. Singleton. (Photo by Mansfield)

Gaughn's Drug Observes a Milestone in a Million

A milestone in a million was observed in Warren Wednesday at Gaughn's Drug Store, 348 Pennsylvania ave. w.

At that time the local pharmacy was honored as having filled its millionth prescription—a record in northwestern Pennsylvania. Gaughn's is one of six facilities to attain the goal, the other being principally hospital pharmacies where the number of prescriptions build up more quickly.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need some advice and fast. A woman I work with telephoned me at the office this morning and said she would not be in because she was "seriously injured in an auto accident." I asked how she could be phoning if she was "seriously hurt." She replied, "I'm not REALLY hurt, Dummie. A taxi brushed my leg so I laid down in the street and said my back was killing me. I'm going to collect enough insurance to go to Europe for two months."

When I asked her how she planned to get away with such a phony stunt she replied, "It's easy. Back injuries are hard to prove or disprove. The insurance companies would rather pay off than go through a jury trial. Public sentiment is with the little guy, you know." Then she said, "I have to hang up now and start moaning. The nurses will be in any minute to take me for X-rays."

I am thoroughly disgusted with this crook and have a strong inclination to tip off the cab company or the insurance company. My husband says, "Stay out of it." I told him I was going to write to you and take your advice. What is it?—HATE CHEISERS

DEAR H.C.: Stay out of it. But don't think for a minute your friend is going to get away with anything. The insurance companies see these crooks every day. They know all the tricks. Eventually they'll catch up with her and when they do she'll be a plenty sad apple.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print my letter for the benefit of the mother who has the diabetic child and is determined to keep his illness a secret because she wants him to feel "normal."

The child is normal. She is the one who is off the beam. As a mother of a nine-year-old boy who has had diabetes since he was four, I can tell that mother if she doesn't inform that boy of the truth soon, she may regret it. I'm surprised the boy's physician didn't insist on it.

If the boy goes into insulin shock and no one knows what is wrong with him, the mother will wish everyone in the world knew about his illness so someone could help him.

Please print my letter, Ann. I would hate to think that a little boy might die because of his mother's ignorance.—HILLSBORO

DEAR H.: I didn't realize how common diabetes was among youngsters until that letter appeared. Hundreds of mothers of diabetic children have written as you did. My thanks to you all.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a divorced woman who works to support herself and her child. A very fine gentleman has asked me out several times these past few months and I have had to engage a sitter to stay with my little girl.

Last week the gentleman offered to pay the sitter but I refused. Some friends with whom I have discussed this problem (it is a problem because I am on a tight budget) say I should not be bashful about accepting the gentleman's offer. He is not wealthy, but money is not the problem with him that it is with me. What is your advice?—FLAT PURSE

DEAR FLAT: A lady pays her sitter, even though the gentleman offers, and is loaded. If the lady should become engaged to the gentleman, the situation changes, and so does the advice.

How far should a teen-age couple go? Can necking be safe? When does it become too hot to handle? Send for Ann Landers booklet, "Necking And Petting—What Are The Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

BPW Hears Head Of Warren Cancer Society On Crusade

The Warren Business and Professional Women's Club met Tuesday at the Blue Manor for the first meeting of the 1967-1968 club year.

Jack Donaldson, president of the Warren County Unit of the American Cancer Society, spoke to the group and showed the film "Million Club".

Mr. Donaldson stressed the importance of education in the "Crusade against cancer" and urged the club members to continue their support of the local unit which they were instrumental in founding.

During the discussion period it was asked if it would be possible for Warren to have a cancer clinic similar to those known to be in operation in near-by communities. Further study of this service is planned.

Mrs. Rudolph Schmiedel, president, conducted the business meeting. It was announced that the Warren club will host the spring district meeting. A definite date is to be announced later.

The following were elected as delegates to the fall district meeting at Sharon, Sept. 30: Mrs. Schmiedel, Miss Pauline Frederick, Mrs. Florence Ott.

Wanderings

by Marion Honhart

A FUN EVENING has been planned by the "Pairs 'N' Spares" of St. John's Lutheran Church, Pleasant Township, for Sunday—an old-fashioned hayride and wiener roast will begin a program of activities for autumn, winter and spring. Lyle Shavley of the program committee is in charge of arrangements. Everyone will meet at the church parking lot at 7:30, the starting point of the hayride which will take them to the Henry Petersen pond; members are to bring their own supply of wieners, buns and beverage. With the present morning and evening nipiness in the air, warm clothing is suggested. Fun over, the evening will close with a brief business meeting, led by the group's president, Arthur Anderson, at the church.

THE OLD ORDER AMISH, film and commentary, will be presented on Monday afternoon, September 18th, at the opening fall meeting of the One O'Clock Club at the YWCA. Archie Hunter, bringing his own projector, is showing the film which tells the story of the Amish folk of the Pennsylvania Dutch Country, and was produced under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Folklore Society. It was a difficult film to make because of the reluctance of the Amish to be photographed. The One O'Clock Club invites all interested women to attend. Primarily the club was started for housewives and mothers with young children, as a sort of stimulating way of expanding one's interests and mental horizon. Meetings are held once a month (every 3rd Monday of the month) and, as its name implies, at 1 o'clock in the YWCA. Sandwiches are brought by each member for a light lunch; a babysitting service is available if requested by mothers. For the meeting this Monday no membership in the YWCA is required. Officers to serve for the 1967-68 season will be elected.

BICYCLING TOURS are once again going to be conducted by Barbara DeFrees from the YWCA. This is the third series of tours for bicyclists, but the first ever held in the autumn of the year. The weekly rides will start next Thursday, September 21st, at 1:15 from the gates of the YWCA. It is to be a short ride, so that any beginning bicyclists need have no fear of protesting muscles. The second ride, according to Mrs. DeFrees, will be of short duration too, for the same reason. However, by that time everyone should be conditioned and the rides will lengthen. Then the surrounding countryside, with the turning autumn leaves silhouetted against the bluest of October skies, arrayed in a special, full-blown kaleidoscope of colors—a final burst of beauty—may be observed by those who in other years have watched the gentler colors of spring unfold. The bicycle tours will be in five weekly sessions, the final one to be on Thursday, October 19th. There is just one requirement—other than having your own bicycle, of course—each one must be a member of the YWCA. For further information call 723-6350.

MINIATURES: McClintock School PTA is meeting Monday evening at 8 o'clock with room visitation from 7:30 to 8. The membership drive will open with a prize for the room with the most new PTA members. Dr. Larry Krespan will be the speaker. Court Warren No. 834 booth for the Sidewalk Festival is in front of Sires News—Same spot as in other years. The first meeting of Linden Elementary School PTA is Tuesday evening, September 19th, at 8. The program will be given by a member of the State Police on "Safety".

Forty Hours Devotions

The Forty Hours Devotions in honor of Jesus in the Most Blessed Sacrament will open this Sunday at the High Mass at 10:30 a.m., at Holy Redeemer Parish in Warren and will continue through Tuesday. Father Andrew Fontonella of St. Joan of Arc Parish in Hershey, Pa., will be in charge of all the religious exercises; he will be assisted by the many visiting Monsignors and Priests from near and far and former Assistant Priests of the Parish. The 75 Altar Boys of the parish and the girls in the 3rd, 4th and 5th grades will also participate in the processions Sunday morning and Tuesday night.

The services Sunday and Monday nights will consist of Rosary, Sermon and Benediction; Tuesday night Rosary, Procession and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The devotions all three nights will be at 7:30 p.m. Confessions Saturday 4 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 8 p.m.; Sunday 4 to 5 p.m., and after the evening services; confessions Monday during the Masses, also from 4 to 5 p.m., and again after the evening services; Confession Tuesday during the morning Masses. The Masses Monday and Tuesday will be at 7 a.m., 9 a.m., and 4 p.m. Holy Communion will be brought to the sick of the parish at the time that best suits them; families of sick persons are asked to contact Holy Redeemer Rectory for the exact hour when the Priest is to call at the homes. Father Fontonella will also be available for confessions in Italian starting Sunday night after the devotions.

Father Andrew Fontonella of St. Joan of Arc Parish in Hershey, Pa., will be in charge of all the religious exercises; he will be assisted by the many visiting Monsignors and Priests from near and far and former Assistant Priests of the Parish. The 75 Altar Boys of the parish and the girls in the 3rd, 4th and 5th grades will also participate in the processions Sunday morning and Tuesday night.

ANNE PUTNAM
Engaged To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Putnam, 302 East St., Warren, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Anne Margaret, to William Heseltin Mallinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert H. Mallinson, 719 Sunset Ave., Johnstown, Pa. Miss Putnam is a graduate of Chatham College. Mr. Mallinson, a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, is employed by Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania as Warren District Plant Superintendent. A family wedding is planned for November 4.

Council Of The Arts Distributes Events Calendar

The Warren Calendar of Events, just compiled and completed by the Warren Council of the Arts at Harrisburg, to pay for the professional artists, a famous potter and a critic, who performed at the Art League last June. The state organization has a fund to stimulate and enrich current programs in any of the performing arts.

The only art group in Pennsylvania who received funds from the Penna. Council on the Arts, outside a group in Philadelphia and one in Pittsburgh, was the Warren Art League. The purpose is to give local art groups art standards of professional quality, which can be aimed for by the local artists. The state Council on the Arts sent all local organizations questionnaires to be filled out and returned to Harrisburg.

Many organizations wrote back how pleased they were that this was being done, the Lions Club, sending a check to help with the expense. There was talk of reissuing the Calendar of Events in February, if enough new material warranted it. The Warren Art League announced that they received their check from the Penna. Council on the Arts at Harrisburg, to pay for the professional artists, a famous potter and a critic, who performed at the Art League last June. The state organization has a fund to stimulate and enrich current programs in any of the performing arts.

The October meeting of the Warren Council of the Arts will be held at the Warren Art League, Fifth Avenue, on October 3. Warren Players, hosts to the Warren Council of Arts, served doughnuts and cider before the September meeting adjourned.

Hints From Heloise

Bleach Jug Makes Cover

WE CAN always buy brush holders but the plumbers' friend which I also like to keep in my bathroom has no place to hide.

I finally decided to do something about it. So I painted the handle white, cut off the top of a gallon bleach jug, and the plumber's friend fitted right in.

Then I cut a small size jug off halfway and made an inch hole in the bottom. By putting this inside down over the handle, the plumber's friend had a cover.

It looks like a little old-fashioned butter churn, very neat and clean in our bathroom.

Bernice Jordan

Now, Bernice, aren't you a lucky one? I bow to you on both knees.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: Did you know that brushing the bottom crust of a pie with slightly beaten egg white will prevent juice from soaking into it.

The crust will be nice and crisp, not soggy.

Blondie

DEAR HELOISE: Here are two uses I have for dental polish other than its regular use.

I paint metal buttons with it for a long-lasting shine. Also coat the middle of the button with it too and it will cement the thread and keep those buttons on longer.

"The Three Musketeers"

DEAR HELOISE: I moved recently and my bedroom drapes were a little too narrow for the windows.

I moved the stitching from the pleats and instead of three folds in each pleat I made two small ones.

This widened them just enough to cover the window and no one noticed the difference.

I was so pleased with the result, but of all it saved me the expense of having to buy new drapes.

Ruth Roberts

Ruth, hon, you really had your "thinker" working on this one. Thanks for sharing.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: I just can't bear to throw away those nice plastic-coated trays that are packaged in at the meat market.

I have been saving them but haven't found a use for them yet. Would appreciate some ideas.

Elaine Michaels

Come on, gals, I'll bet you have some suggestions. Write to us in care of this paper and let's help our friend, Elaine.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: We put out small barbecue grill in our fireplace. Now we have wonderful charbroiled meats the year around without our insects and the threat of rain.

Bear Lake Area News

By PEGGY OSBORNE
Douglas Cable is now home visiting his folks Mr. and Mrs. Leno Cable, before going back to college this fall.
Mrs. Harold Cornish had a birthday party for her son Timothy last Saturday afternoon. It was his 7th birthday.
Saturday afternoon Peggy Osborne had a surprise birthday party for her daughter Marlene who was 9 years old. Guests were present from Jamestown, North Clymer, and Bear Lake. Games were played with the following winning prizes: Susan Crosby, Patty Webster and Lynette Ostrander. Cake, ice cream and punch was served. Mrs. Harvey Fiscus of Jamestown, also helped.
The Bear Lake council met Monday evening at the fire hall, with President Manford Smith presiding.
Dan Cornish was at the meeting. He spoke about the gas coming into Bear Lake next summer 1968. He asked for some help to distribute leaflets on information about gas on how much it will cost a year, and how much it will cost to be installed. This will go according to how many sign up.
There was also discussion about roads and ditches in Bear Lake.
The Bear Lake ambulance was called out Monday evening to Nio, to the Melvin Johnson farm, but upon arrival found Merlyn Island dead.
On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Moore of Westfield and Mrs. Gertrude Newhouse visited Mr. and Mrs. Walter Newhouse.

TIDIOUTE

Tidioute To Host WCTU

The Warren County Women's Christian Temperance Union convention will be held Wednesday, Sept. 27, at First Methodist Church in Tidioute, with the local WCTU hosting the meeting.

Plans were made for the event when the Tidioute WCTU held its first fall meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Calvin Montgomery Sr. A discussion also was conducted on plans for holding a rummage sale during the state fishing tournament on the weekend of Oct. 14-15 and selling fruit cakes for the holidays.

The meeting opened with devotions presented by Mrs. Anna Daehoussen, which included the reading of Psalm 91 and prayer. Mrs. Harriette Courson and Mrs. Earl Sundell read articles and the meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison.

Watson Home Ec Ladies Meet

The Watson Twp. Home Extension Group held a reorganizational meeting Wednesday with eighteen members and four guests present. Hostesses were Mrs. Kirk Beck and Mrs. Mildred Noel.

Mrs. Florence Spencer was elected chairman; Mrs. Virginia Watson, vice chairman; and Mrs. William Savley, reporter.

Plans were made to attend the open house at the adolescent ward of Warren State Hospital on Sunday, Sept. 17. Draperies for the ward were made last spring by various home extension groups.

Members are reminded of the annual Christmas Fair scheduled for Nov. 16. Guests included Mrs. Cargill and Mrs. Parker who helped the ladies make potholders from wash cloths.

Awarded scholarships that will enable them to begin their college educations are these four Tidioute youths, all members of Tidioute High School's Class of 1967. They are: Mike Chappel, Harry Hopkins, Kenneth Nicholson, and Carl Pillar.

Council Renews Dog Agreement

With the expiration date nearing on the six-months guaranteed contract with Mrs. Juanita Wolford to serve as dog officer and provide defecation pens, Tidioute borough council voted Monday night to continue the agreement for another six months on the same salary and fee basis.

Council also approved the purchase of winter uniforms for Mrs. Wolford, who also is employed as parking meter attendant.

A parcel of land on Grant st. between the street and Tidioute Creek was offered to the borough at no cost by Fisher & Lounsbury of Titusville. Council agreed to accept the tract.

George Morrison, borough superintendent, was present to advise council of water system problems involving about 17,000 feet of clogged and corroded water supply line on Tidioute Creek, which augments the main 6-inch line. Mr. Morrison was instructed to obtain costs of contracting the cleaning job and also prices for purchasing the needed equipment.

Because of requests for extending water service in Linestown twp. beyond the area already receiving city water, council agreed to consider providing water for an additional ten or twelve customers next spring.

Although plans for metering the water system will not be carried out for several years, council members listened to a Neptune meter salesman describe his equipment for metering, reading and billing. He also displayed a new-type meter with the electronic reading and billing device and discussed costs.

The treasurer reported $7,684.27 in the general fund; $19.83 in the highway account; and $400.30 in the lighting fund. Transferred from the library account to Tidioute Public Library was the sum of $34.

Tidioute Calendar

TIDIOUTE LIONS CLUB will have a dinner meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 19. Members will be advised as to time and place.

TIDIOUTE AREA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE will meet Tuesday, Sept. 19, at 8 p.m. in the Vets Bldg.

TIDIOUTE PTA meets Tuesday, Sept. 19 at 8 p.m. at the school building.

MOUNTAIN GRANGE will meet in the grange hall on Friday evening, Sept. 22.

Tidioute Graduates Win Scholarships

Four 1967 graduates of Tidioute High School have been awarded scholarships by the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency. Receiving the scholarships are Michael Chappel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vance Chappel; Harry Hopkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Hopkins Sr.; Kenneth Nicholson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Nicholson; and Carl Pillar, son of Joseph M. Pillar.

Mike Chappel begins studies this week at Gannon College in the school of liberal arts. While at Tidioute high school, he participated in the Key Club, Student Council and junior class play. He also was elected a student delegate for the mock United Nations at Erie.

Harry Hopkins will begin studies for a degree in petroleum engineering at Behrend Campus of Pennsylvania State University. Harry served as president of the National Honor Society during his senior year and also was a member of the Varsity Club, Key Club and the varsity basketball squad. During his junior year, he took part in the junior class play.

Accepted by the University of Pittsburgh, Titusville Campus, Kenneth Nicholson plans a career in electrical engineering. During his senior year, Ken served as president of the Student Council. He also was a member of the National Honor Society, Key Club, and yearbook staff. He took part in both junior and senior class plays.

Carl Pillar, president of the senior class, enters a two-year program of study in drafting and design technology at Behrend Campus, Erie. His activities in school included membership in the National Honor Society and Student Council. He was president of the Key Club and coeditor of the yearbook during his senior year. He participated in two class plays and also played varsity baseball.

The State Scholarship Program, inaugurated during the Scranton administration, is designed to assist graduates of Pennsylvania secondary schools to obtain a higher education in an approved degree granting institution or in Pennsylvania post-secondary trade, technical, or business schools and diploma programs of nursing. Scholarships range from $200-$1200. Qualified students must prove financial need and must score at least 800 combined Verbal - Mathematics on the Scholastic Aptitude Test during their junior year. They are expected to be able to succeed in college.

Rep. Johnson Has Four Vacancies at West Point

Congressman Albert W. Johnson of the 23rd Congressional District issued a reminder today to the young men of the 23rd District that he is still receiving applications from young men who would like to attend one of the service academies.

Congressman Johnson stated the reason that he is making this additional announcement at this time is by reason of the fact that owing to the tragic death of one of the students at the Military Academy at West Point and graduation and other factors, he has at the present time four vacancies at the Military Academy at West Point to fill next year. In addition, he has one vacancy at the Naval Academy and two at the Air Force Academy.

Congressman Johnson stated that selections will be made entirely as a result of competitive examinations. The first examination, a placement examination, will be held on Saturday, November 4, and an additional examination for those who failed to request permission to take the examination on time will be held on Friday, December 1.

The Congressman further emphasized that in the event that other young men qualify in the final examinations over and above the seven appointments that he has available, in the past he has been successful in placing additional boys who were qualified in the various academies by reason of the fact that many Congressmen fail to fill their quotas for various reasons. He stated that here is an excellent opportunity for a number of young men to receive a very fine education in three of the greatest service academies in the world.

Applications for the November 4th examination will be received up to October 4th and for the December 1st examination up to November 17th.

Wrightsville Note

Bake Sale will be held Saturday morning starting at 10 a.m., Sept. 16 at Brokenstraw Valley Camp Site on Route No. 6. It is a benefit for the Community Center.

Dedicate Hall At Grove City This Sunday

GROVE CITY—Formal dedication of Lewis W. Hicks Hall, Grove City College's new $1.6-million dormitory and dining hall will be held on Sunday evening, it was announced yesterday by Dr. J. Stanley Harker, President.

Dr. A. Ray Cartledge, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church of the Covenant, Erie, will deliver an address during the special Dedication Program in Harrison Chapel at 7:30 p. m.

Dr. Cartledge, who is a member of Grove City College's Board of Trustees, will speak on the subject, "Remember Joseph."

The Grove City community is invited to attend open house ceremonies at Hicks Hall following the service, beginning at approximately 8:30 p. m. Dr. Harker has issued an open invitation to everyone in the area to attend. "We welcome you and urge you to see this magnificent dormitory and dining hall," he said.

The new dormitory is a three-story, brick and masonry structure, and will house 164 men, while the attractive dining hall will seat 500 students at one time.

Hicks Hall will be the sixth men's dormitory on the Grove City College campus. Others are Colonial Hall, Memorial Hall, Kettler Hall, Lincoln Hall and Hopeman Hall.
